CAMPUS LIFE

WELCOME FRESHMEN!

Breaking in a new lifestyle

Moving to college is a significant change: freshmen break out of an old lifestyle for something completely foreign, while upperclassmen readjust to the college lifestyle on an ever-changing campus. Katrina Dowd, a freshman Psychology major, came to campus expecting to room with a friend from cheerleading tryouts this summer, freshman Political Science major Laura Presbrey. Due to overcrowding on campus, the two roommates were joined by a third, freshman Sports Management major Andrea Denholm. "When I first found out I was in a triple, I was disappointed. But, after meeting these two new friends, I wouldn't have it any other way," said Dowd.

Not everyone was pleased with additional roommates, however; next to Dowd, Presbrey and Denholm is an old lounge that was converted to a room for six freshman males. Multiple lounges underwent such a conversion this year in order to temporarily accommodate all of the incoming freshmen until more permanent housing arrangements could be made.

While freshmen dealt with overcrowding in residence halls, many upperclassmen eagerly moved into the newly completed Stadium View apartments and Affinity Complex. John Groder, a 34 living in Stadium View, says: "Housing just keeps getting better every year. Nothing beats the Stadium View life though - it has it all." PG Andrea Moenster also enjoys living in Stadium View, but adds: "A disadvantage to living in the apartments is the extremely high price. In the apartments we are paying roughly $5,000 a year, which I think is very unfair."

Another housing change is the new Affinity Village complex. The Honors Program, a women's health group and two sororities, Delta Zeta and Kappa Alpha Theta, each have a "house" within the complex. Katie Wiederhast, senior Journalism major and Delta Zeta sister says: "The new Delta Zeta house in the Affinity Village is amazing. Our nationals supplied the sorority with fabulous furniture and decor. We are all very happy to be living out in the Village."

Students take the good with the bad, moving back to college with an open mind and prepared to break out the books regardless of where their desks may be located.

2. Welcome Fest gives student organizations a chance to advertise and explain themselves to new students. Ivan Dingle, Laura Rosen, Tim Wittich and Nick Senior work Student Senate's table.

3. Even before classes started, there were a multitude of activities in which to participate. Here, Ryan Davidson and Monte Paschal just at Greengrass.

4. Residence Life staff members help unload a new arrival's luggage.

5. Ryan Mulvany and Darren Balaban mingle under the heavy loads they have to carry into the residence halls.

6. Students, eager to collect free goodies and learn about the various campus organizations, park the "Welcome Fest" tent on Labor Day.

7. A typical move-in scene: steel chairs, bedding and plastic storage containers line the halls as students attempt to fit it all in their new rooms.

BREAKING IN THE NEW

Students move into new additions to Northern's campus!

When students arrived on campus for the start of the 2008-09 academic year, there were numerous new additions that stood out. One of these additions was the innovative Affinity Village residence halls, where the Delta Delta and Kappa Alpha Theta sororities are located along with a Women's Wellness group and Honors Program housing. Each group has its own chapter house with a kitchen, study room and social area. Also, within Affinity Village is a fitness area and a café available to all students.

The Stadium View apartments are another prominent addition on campus. The appropriately named apartments share a view of the Dul-Roberson Stadium and house approximately 250 upperclassmen. The Linus Complex residence halls were renovated during summer 2008 to feature modern suites. Sophomore Civil Engineering major and Resident Assistant Kevin Earnest said that "Residents enjoy the privacy they receive by having their own bedroom and a bathroom that they only share with their roommate."

Residence halls are not the only new buildings on campus - the R. H. Beatty College of Pharmacy has a new wing with three classrooms, a large lecture hall and extra office space. In addition to a new building, the Pharmacy College has a new dean, Dr. Jon Sprague. He received his B.S. in Pharmacy from Ferris State University and a Ph.D. in Pharmacology and Toxicology from Purdue University. stated by Dean Sprague, "The College of Pharmacy at ONU has always been well respected within the state of Ohio and now the College has positioned itself to become a national leader in pharmacy education."

After three record-breaking years, the University welcomed over twenty new traditions to different colleges on campus along with a record number of international students. Besides breaking ground for more buildings on campus, Ohio Northern is breaking into new countries and cultures, becoming more diverse within its student population.

J. Campus Architect Steve Miller, University President Ken Baker, Student Senate Vice President Tim Ilbrich, Project Executive Jim Jernagren, and Carter Gilman cut the ribbon outside Affinity Village located on the south side of campus. The dedication ceremony happened only days before the fall quarter began.

The steps up to the Affinity Commons Area truly look impressive. Commons Area was the site of many activities throughout the year. Many were in attendance for the dedication ceremony of the new armory building with speaker Tommy Thompson. The addition will also serve the students at OAU.

The House Planter addition to the Pharmacy building is just one of many additions to the OAU campus this fall.

The Affinity Village and Lima Complex now have their own fitness area equipped with treadmills and ellipticals. This will help free up Sports Center during the winter months.

The Lima Complex suites have a common area furnished with two sofas and a TV stand. Students feel the step up from the oldman living room over to the new suites.

IN THE NEWS...

Campus News and National News Impact our Students

Ohio Northern's 2008-7 school year was full of new additions to the college's academic program, astonishing achievements by the students, and events outside the university that may have negative repercussions on the institution.

The Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) was one of the academic additions to the list of majors offered at ONU. Dr. Ruth Altaneder, the Interim Director of Nursing explained that "the key components of the program are the integration of biological sciences, humanities, and other liberal arts courses along with learning the professional practice skills to function as an RN." The new nursing program will also open more doors for the students seeking their BSN. "This will provide them with an ability to seek employment in many future avenues of the nursing profession."

Another recent major event that has hit ONU is the projected cut of the Ohio Choice Grants. Under Governor Ted Strickland's proposed budget, 82% of the full-time ONU students that receive the grant will no longer qualify for it. Instead the state will narrow the grant private schools that need it the most, and also give the extra money to public colleges. This is a serious problem for families that depend on the $6000 grant and may even cause students to switch to public colleges. "The grant was a nice gesture by the state that is an inconvenient loss at this time" P1 Jay Anderson commented. The budget is still in the process of being approved and will be something for the students to keep their eyes on. Students at Ohio Northern have taken an active role in protesting the change, including Freshman Language Arts Education major Jenny Pelton, who organized a trip to Columbus for students to lobby the proposed cut.

ONU continued to culturally enrich its students by awarding five fellowships for the Hanyang University summer program in Seoul, South Korea. The five fortunate students who will spend the summer in South Korea are P4 Susan Harrington, junior Education and Hist major Jessica Riegle, senior Engineering major Jacob Patton, P4 Brett Kuntzberger and sophomore Political Science/Communication major Stephanie Wells. The summer program lasts four weeks and offers tuition and housing cost-free. After the four weeks students will travel to Xi'an, China. The program will provide not only an excellent educational opportunity, but students will also experience South Korea and Chinese culture first hand.

Sophomore mechanical engineering major Jimmy O'Brien made ONU proud by winning the 800-meter run at the NCAA Division I Indoor and Outdoor Track & Field Championships. After a near fall in his preliminary race during the indoor season, he was able to regroup and win the title. He is the first ONU men's track member, and the second ONU track athlete, to win an individual national championship. O'Brien was also the Great Lakes Region Male Track Athlete of the Year. During outdoor season, even the rain and wind would not keep the victory from him as he once again came from behind to win his second title. O'Brien looks to defend his titles next year.

Many events and news items took place across the campus in 2008-7 and more events will inevitably bring excitement to student life. The success and motivation of ONU students continues to make breaking news next round.

1. Susan Harrington, Jacob Patton, Jessica Riegle, Stephanie Wells and Professor David Smith will be taking a trip to Korea as part of a summer program.

2. Save the Ohio Choice Grant! Josh Gargas, Jenny Pelton, Brett Kuntzberger, Jacob Patton and Martha Clappool represented Ohio Northern at a trip to Columbus to lobby the proposed cut of the grant.

GONE COUNTRY

Breaking out the cowboy boots for ONU Homecoming 2006

Homecoming 2006 brought students, faculty and alumni together to celebrate the weekend in "Gone Country" style. On campus festivities began earlier in the week, leading up to Saturday, October 14th. This year's Homecoming was planned by senior Accounting major Kaseen Miller and junior Psychology major Amy Vesiniko. Miller says, "We started planning for Homecoming in spring 2006. As with planning for any large event, problems do occur – I think they are unavoidable. But we worked through them and Homecoming 2006 was a successful."

Alumni events filled the schedule for Saturday, with alumni returning from several graduating classes. Students, faculty and alumni joined together early in the day for the annual Homecoming Parade, featuring music, floats and the Homecoming King and Queen candidate P4 Susan Warrington rode on the prize-winning Habitat for Humanity float, which supported the "Gone Country" theme with line dancing, barn-raising. Warrington says, "It was a lot of fun because it's not everyday that you get to see students line dancing and raising a barn on a moving vehicle!"

The major event of the afternoon was the Homecoming football game at the Dial-Roberson Stadium. Attendees ate lunch at the tailgate party before the football game against Capital and could also enjoy the carnival rides, which included a chicken-cook-out and a giant

Despite a strong start on the field, the football team lost to Capital 10 to 17. Homecoming King and Queen were announced during halftime after a Latin-themed halftime show by the ONU Marching Band. P3 Kelly Hiteshew, Habitat for Humanity's nominee, was announced as Queen. For the first time in ONU history, there was a tie for Homecoming King. P2 Todd Segg, representing Student Senate, and Ryan Wingo, a P4 representing the Sigma Epsilon fraternity, were both named as Homecoming King.

Homecoming came to an end on Saturday with two concerts. Frankie Avalon in the Food Center and O.A.R. in Kingdom. Avalon is a teen idol in the 1960s and 1980s, recording many popular songs that are still enjoyed today, including his best known song "Venus." O.A.R. or "Of a Revolution," is an alternative rock band with a widely collegiate fan-base nationwide.

Hiteshew sums up the weekend, saying "ONU 'Gone Country' was great. The parade, the game, the O.A.R. concert, they were all so much fun. With so much going on, it was definitely the best weekend to be in Ada."

1. The "Gone Country" Homecoming court was composed of the following: Ryan Wingo (Sigma Epsilon), Courtney Overstreet (Zeta Tau Alpha), Ade Jacobs (College Republicans), Kelly Hiteshew (Habitat for Humanity), Shaw Cox (Habitat for Humanity), Megan Monroe (Student Senate), Todd Segg (Student Senate), Leah Zimmerman (Founders Hall), Andrew "Blody" Cain (Founders Hall), Kathleen Gutierrez (Piappa Alpha Theta), and Brooke Fleinger (Northern PeakRock).

1. Anxious students wait D.J.M. to begin their performance after hearing the opening band.
2. Kevin Craig takes a swing at a car painted in Otterbein colors during "Street Bash." Smashing the car is a great way for students to relieve stress.
3. Junior Torja Evans sits above the dunk tank for $1000 during taggate festivities. Other games included a rock climbing wall, mechanical bull riding and hayrides.
4. Before the start of the parade, Alondra pats a horse in the "Dare County" petting zoo.
5. Homecoming royalty were Ryan Kings, Kelly Hixson and Todd Segs. This is the first time there has ever been a tie for King in ODU history.

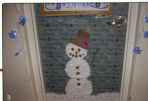

WINTER ON CAMPUS

Breaking out of ONU for winter break

2. Explain how David Kaufman spent his Thanksgiving weekend off his mathematics professor that he built during an engineer Christmas party. The fact is, since the winter break students to be able create other looking for winter

3. Maggill residents make paper snowcones and snowflakes as substitutes for the real thing. This program, if ideal, will not last.

- ii. Anna McLaughlin rides her sled through Clark Hall in preparation for snow that did not arrive until the end of winter quarter. Luckily she has found a friend to pull her on her sled.
- iii. The Mc Datta brothers Sean (left) and Alan (right) collect money in Midtown for their annual Santa Claus project. All donations go to Saint Jude Children's Hospital.
- iv. Once the snow finally arrived, Dana Pflaum made the most of it by building a snow fort. Here she is seen on the lookout for more snow.
- v. Freshmen Brianna Davis, Danielle Henderson, Lindsay French and Jessica Linton host sugar cookies during Stambaugh Hall's "Christmas Week" event.

Despite the lack of snow this winter, students at Ohio Northern University are ready for winter break. Students eagerly exchange class time for time at home with family and friends, celebrating holidays, relaxing and ignoring homework. While winter holiday traditions vary, the anticipation for a break from class is universal.

Sophomore History major, Julie Kropp, celebrates Hanukkah "with my immediate family, just a small celebration. My mom cooks a special dinner, and we light the menorah and give presents." Hanukkah is a Jewish celebration that lasts for eight days, starting on the 25th day of Kislev on the Jewish calendar or on Thursday, December 16 on the Gregorian calendar in the year 2006.

Scott Parson, a senior Psychology major, celebrates Christmas "with my family. We just open presents on Christmas day and family comes over to visit." Parson chooses to spend his break "just sleeping in and playing video games for two weeks and visiting my friends." Megan Trinkl, a Freshman Creative Writing major, also celebrates Christmas by spending time with her family. She enjoys "playing in the snow with my little cousins." Elizabeth Buenger, a freshman Biology major, likes "getting to sing with my youth choir for the Christmas Eve service."

Freshman International Studies major, Rachel Spencer, celebrates "Yule, the winter solstice, by playing songs, presents and a simple feast." The winter solstice is the day when the sun is at its greatest distance from the equator, creating the shortest day and longest night of the year. The winter solstice occurred on Thursday, December 21, this year. Spencer says her favorite winter activity is "decorating the house with my mom."

Winter break is about more than celebrating holidays; students enjoy having time for winter activities, as well. Freshman Molly Harnington, an Electrical Engineering major, "loves snowboarding" among other winter activities. Another aspect of winter that Buenger looks forward to is everyone's favorite seasonal drink: "hot chocolate". Kropp captures many students' feelings about winter break: "It's not just that it's the holiday season, it's that you get a break during the happiest time of the year."

Breaking out of Acadamia and Diving into Spring Break

The weather during Spring Break may not have been spring-like, but students at ONU welcomed the week-long vacation with open arms. Students engaged themselves in many activities, including going on the Habitat for Humanity trips, traveling with family and friends or just relaxing at home.

One hundred fourteen ONU students decided to travel with Habitat for Humanity down to either Jackson, MS, Sikee, LA or Winston-Salem, NC to help families from disaster-stricken and impoverished areas rebuild their homes. PG Adam Bidner shared that the trip was "rewarding spiritually because you're doing such a wonderful service for someone who has lost their home." In addition to helping others, students also have the opportunity to make new friends along with creating memories that will last forever.

Spring break is also a great time to travel with friends or family. Freshmen Electrical Engineering major Justine Jacob, Civil Engineering major Jenna Grace and Nursing major Tiffany Davis decided to take a "roommate bonding trip" to Los Angeles, CA. The trip included a limo tour all over Hollywood, being on both Jay Leno and the Price is Right and just enjoying LA in general. Although the big city was exciting, Jacob added that "it was nice to get away from the three hour traffic jams and get back to the three traffic lights of Ada."

Spring break vacations can also be filled with fun surprises as senior Mathematics major Katie Mikolaj found out when her friend took a five-day snowboarding trip to Snowshoe, WV. "My boyfriend came with me, and we proposed to him while we were snowboarding down the slopes!" Mikolaj reminisces. "It was completely unexpected and just a great memory in the snow!"

One of the best ways that students recover from winter quarter is by simply staying at home. As junior Criminal Justice major Elizabeth Shelton puts it, "It's nice to just let your brain melt and relax." Sophomore Language Arts education major Summer Hall said that Resident Assistants in particular appreciate their break at home. As an RA herself, Summer commented that "It was very nice not having to feel tied down to Clark Hall for the entire week. I never miss trying to enforce visitation!"

Despite its early occurrence, bringing rain and snow to a week of pleasure, spring break proves to be just the thing students need to replenish themselves. Spring quarter is not half as intimidating to ONU students once they are refreshed and ready to go.

5. Kelly Patterson and Sarah Sherman take a break from painting and hauling during their Habitat trip to Jackson, Mississippi. Students also traveled to Louisiana and North Carolina on Habitat spring break trips.

6. Freshmen Justine Jacob, Jenna Skene and Tiffany Davis represent OHS, Ohio, by showing off their homemade shirts for "The Price is Right." The girls spent the night on the streets of Los Angeles outside the CBS studios in order to have a chance to "Come on down."

7. Nick Vintz, Jan Crowley, Stephen Hennard, Mike Copman, Jason Bouquet, Cliff Moore and Simon Wadell stand in front of the Bellagio in Las Vegas. 8. Bob Hanley also plans for traveling the farthest during spring break. He flew to Scotland. While there, he met up with David Walsh, an OHS student studying abroad. In this picture Hanley and Walsh are in front of the Golfeuch-Castle in Finlay Scotland.

ROBERT RITTENHOUSE

He wanted to touch lives

On Friday, December 15, 2006 freshman General Studies major Robert Rittenhouse passed away in a car accident. Rittenhouse's car collided with a tractor-trailer traveling in the opposite direction on State Route 309 around 9 a.m. Callingshows were held on Tuesday, December 19 and the funeral was held on Wednesday, December 20. Many students attended the funeral, aided by university transportation.

Rittenhouse was born Tuesday, November 3, 1987 in Bellefontaine, Ohio. He graduated in 2006 from Benjamin Logan High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society and captain of the football team, among many other distinctions. At ONU, Rittenhouse had begun a similarly impressive record, achieving Dean's List honors and joining the fraternity Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The ONU community continues to remember Rittenhouse. A memorial service was held on Monday, January 16 in the ONU English Chapel, led by President Baker, Chaplain Vernon Larisla and students Justin Barnhart, Alex Jarvis and Max Jarvis. Rittenhouse's longtime best friend, Max Jarvis, says, "He was so excited to come to ONU to become a special needs-early education teacher. He wanted to touch so many lives in his profession. He touched so many more lives than anyone could ever know."

On Wednesday, April 26 the ONU community remembered Rittenhouse again during a week-long chapel service when the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon dedicated a room and a tree located in Fraternity Circle in Rittenhouse's name. Despite his status as a freshman, Rittenhouse was an active, positive member of campus. His contributions on campus profoundly affected his friends and classmates, leaving a powerful one-year legacy at ONU.

1. Cindy Hughes, Rob Rittenhouse and Alex Jarvis pose as brothers in their Big Zz family. Jarvis and Rittenhouse were friends even before coming to ONU.

2. Rob Rittenhouse with the Sigma Phi Epsilon football team at the Bull Bone Holiday Bowl. With his football background, Rittenhouse was a natural leader on the team.

3. Rob and his girlfriend, Jessica Carlini. They dated for almost five years.

ROSEMARY ZIKA WILLIAMS

Committed to making the music live on

Rosie Williams passed away at home on Monday, March 26, 2007 after a long struggle with cancer. Calling hours were held in Ada followed by a memorial service on Friday, March 30 in the GNU English Chapel.

Zika Williams was born September 13, 1949 in Chicago. Starting in high school, Zika Williams was an active performer as a solo recitalist, accompanist and chamber musician. She earned a Bachelor of Music degree in Piano Performance from Indiana University and a Master of Music degree, summa cum laude, in Piano Performance from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She has also studied in Vienna, Austria. Zika Williams joined the GNU faculty in 1973 as a resident artist in piano and harpsichord, and a lecturer in music.

Zika Williams' list of professional accomplishments is lengthy. She has performed throughout the Midwest and in Austria, including her most recent guest appearance with the Toledo Symphony, and has also served as adjudicator and guest speaker for various musical organizations. Since 1973 Zika Williams has also been a recognized composer and arranger, premiering works at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. and with the Toledo Symphony, as well as with the GNU Symphonic Band.

Away from the piano, Zika Williams has been acknowledged for her service to the community and university. Zika Williams was named "Teacher of the Year" by the Middle West District of the Ohio Music Teachers Association and honored, along with her departed husband, Ed Williams, as Ada "Goddess of the Year" for 20 years. Zika Williams served as advisor to Tau Beta Sigma, a national honorary band sorority, and was also an honorary member of Kappa Kappa Psi, a national honorary band fraternity. The GNU chapter of Mortar Board also named Zika Williams as an honorary member because of her dedication to service and scholarship.

As a former student of Rosie Williams, I personally have been permanently impacted by her positive attitude and commitment to education and service. Her encouragement and "groovy" outlook even when life was difficult is an inspiration to everyone who knew her.

B. Rosie Williams joined the GNU faculty in 1973 and has been dedicated to the education of music students ever since. Rosie taught freshman Theory and Ear Training, helping the first-year music students get on the right track.

BAND AND CHOIR

Breaking into song

From football games in the fall to graduation in the spring, the musical talent of Ohio Northern students can be heard across campus all year long. With a wide array of music groups ranging from Marching Band to University Singers, music lovers are sure to find the group that is right for them.

The largest and perhaps loudest music group is the ONU Marching Band. This year Marching Band spiced things up with Spanish music, which included "Living La Vida Loca" by Ricky Martin. The Marching Band took their music all the way to Montreal, Canada this year, where they performed at the Alouettes' football game. Due to the coordination required to play and march at the same time, sophomore Psychology major Nathan Conley feels "It's not labeled as a sport, but it might as well be."

Since Marching Band is during fall quarter only, some members go on to participate in Pep Band during winter quarter. Pep Band performs at basketball games and is known for its upbeat songs, motivating the players and pumping up the crowd during the games. Symphonic Band performs all year round, from their Americana Concert in the fall to Spring Band Festival. Wind Ensemble offers challenging music for advanced musicians, which the group performed in Ada and on tour in Chicago. P4 ~~Wang Li, second chair flutist says~~ "Playing Wind Ensemble is a fun break from classes and the piece sound great when we finish choir." The two jazz bands, Jazz Ensemble I and the Northern Lights Jazz Ensemble, provide musicians a chance to learn new techniques and repertoire while playing jazz, blues, soul and funk music.

This year the Symphony Orchestra expanded their horizons with a trip to Chicago, where they had the opportunity to perform and hear the Chicago Orchestra. P2 Cindy Brucato plays first violin and serves as the ensemble's concertmaster. She says, "My favorite part of orchestra this year was going on tour and playing chamber music. Orchestra has become more diverse in the types of music that we have played this year, from modern to chamber to pop."

For those who prefer singing instead of playing an instrument, ONU offers a wide variety of choirs. University Singers, Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus and Community Chorus are just some of the various vocal performance groups at ONU. Each choir sings a variety of music including classical, folk, Broadway and international songs. Senior Music Composition major Michael Oberhauser had the opportunity to act as assistant conductor to the University Singers this year in his fourth and final year in the group. He reflects, "Being assistant conductor this year is a rewarding experience that's great honor, but I'd have to say that it's become sort of singers it is as pretty as it sounds, getting together with bunch of my friends and making great music."

Junior Music Performance major Adam VanMeiren says, "The best part about the different musical groups, by far, is the camaraderie created as you work together to do your best and set high standards for the future." Whether students prefer to play in a band or sing in a choir, they are sure to find the group that is right for them at ONU.

3. The OHSU Marching Band always puts on a good half-time show. In addition to playing for the Beavers, OHSUMB traveled to Montreal to play for the Alouettes.

3. The Symphonic Band performed at graduation under the direction of Dr. Charles Bates.

4. Randy Lu, Josh Schreiner, and Pat Schreiner take a break from playing on the wind ensemble tour. This picture is of their reflection in a large silver basin in downtown Chicago.

5. Pep Band is present at all home basketball games to get the fans excited and encourage the players.

6. Women's choir consists of about 20 female singers. Here the group is seen performing in Presser Hall, conducted by Audrey Forskman.

THEATRE

Breaking out the passport for a global season at Freed

The 2006-07 season at the Freed Center for the Performing Arts impressed its audience with a wide variety of high-quality shows featuring actors, musicians and dancers. The year began with the summer show, "Once Upon a Mattress," which is a musical based upon the "Princess and the Pea" fairy tale. The show featured senior Theater major Lindsay Naiman as Princess Winnifred the Woodbriore and junior Music Performance major Adam VonAlmen as Prince Dauntless.

The Freed Center emphasized global perspectives throughout the year, including the fall dance show which featured Broadway numbers, entitled "Steppin' Out." Over spring break, several dancers traveled to San Luis Potosi, Mexico, to perform some of the numbers from the fall show. Melissa Widman, a sophomore Language Arts Education major, says, "My favorite performing arts event from this past year was definitely traveling to Mexico as part of the OHU Dance Company to perform 'Smoked Cabaret' and soak up Mexican culture." The Freed Center also brought Latin American culture to Aids with a show called "Viva Tango" in the winter. The show featured two Argentinean dancers/choreographers, 12 OHU students and a five-piece Argentinean band.

Shakespeare made an appearance on the Freed Center stage in the winter. The comedy "Twelfth Night" preserved the Elizabethan language but set the play in the 1940s for an unexpected twist. The production featured senior Theater major Bryan Beckwith as Malvolio, Herman as Olivia, junior Theater major Dana Ellison as Viola and freshman Musical Theater major Michael Doyle as Duke Orsino.

The largest production in Freed Center history graced the stage during spring. "The Magic Flute" by W.A. Mozart required over 200 cast, crew and pit members. Three professional actors were brought in for some of the advanced roles, with students filling the remainder of the roles, including Naiman, VonAlmen and junior Theater major Kenley Monson. The opera was performed in English, but closely follows the original.

Other Freed Center events included "Emma's Child," the ever-popular Holiday Spectacular, two children's shows – the Mexican puppet show "Marlas and the Strawberry Cake" and the American premiere of "Looking After Norman" – and the Fifth International Play Festival, featuring plays from Israel and Palestine.

Sophomore Literature major Rose Enrich reflects on the year, saying "Balancing the time commitments can be a challenge, but I'm really looking forward to next year, which is going to be a varied season with lots of opportunities for the students to shine."

1. "Viva Tango" was the combined effort of OHU dance students and an Argentinean dance company. The Steinbaugh Theater filled for every performance of the exciting fall show.

2. Alma McLaughlin and Bryan Beckwith perform in the 2007 International Play Festival. This year the plays focused on Israel and Palestine.

3. The tar dance show, "Steppin' Out," featured tap, jazz, and ballet numbers. Several numbers from this Broadway celebration were performed later in the year in Mexico.

4. "Looking after Norman" is a children's play about a girl and her beloved teddy bear. The cast and crew performed the play at OHSU as well as in several schools in the area, making it the longest-running play in Fred Carter history.

5. The opera "The Magic Flute" was performed as the spring musical in the 2006-2007 season. The opera required a large cast and crew, as well as elaborate costumes and sets. Several OHSU students traveled to San Luis Potosí, Mexico during spring break to put on a dance show. Despite the language barrier, the students enjoyed themselves and did an excellent job.

LIL SIBS AND FAMILY DAY

Bringing outsiders into our community for a glimpse of campus life!

Chris Kozlowski was able to get the chance to spend time with their family during Family Day on September 30th. Students took out the welcome mats and about 450 students and family members participated in the scheduled family events. Some of the possible events for families to attend included an Open House and Reception at the President's home, a tailgating lunch and a pep rally at Orl-Roberson stadium. While on a tour of the Bakers' house, families were able to meet President Hanzell and Mrs. Toby Baker, along with other administrators and members of the President's Club. The pep rally was a last minute event due to the cancellation of the football game, but over 300 people still came to support the Bears. Graduate Assistant in Student Affairs, Jesse Douglas said that "Overall the day was a great success and we look forward to having even more families visit OMS next year for Family Day."

"Chillin' with Your Sib" was the theme for Sibs' Weekend 2000. This weekend allows students to spend time with their siblings that they might not otherwise see while they are away at college. According to Douglas, over 500 siblings participated this year and enjoyed a variety of activities that they could enjoy with their older brother or sister. Siblings who arrived on Friday night were able to go bowling and play pool on campus and even sing karaoke. Magott Hall Summer was also a highlight on Friday night where 50 different participants got the chance to win the grand prize of an iPod shuffle. On Saturday, siblings woke to a breakfast of pancakes, food by Chris Cake Company who is known for being the fastest pancake maker in the world.

Sophomore International Business and Economics major Jenna Doelman said "My sister enjoyed the parade time when the parade floats have parades through across the room for you to watch. She also enjoyed the "Hit Your Glo" booth at the SPC Carnival." Being able to play with your siblings was only one of the attractions at the SPC Carnival. Siblings were then treated to theatre-style candy while watching the movie "Happy Feet." Sibs' Weekend is a time for students to be able to put classes and other obligations to the side and spend some quality time with their siblings.

4. Lisa Gottry and her cousin Morgan Shanks enjoy the special pancake breakfast during Sibs' Weekend. There spend "shuttl' with your sib" was the most important part of the weekend.

5. Yet another event at Magical Hall-Survivor is to find the gum in the pan of powdered sugar. This was a messy and wild Survivor!

6. Miranda Martinez and her younger sister take a break from the weekend fun for a picture together. Martinez usually has to go home if she wants to see her family.

RESLIFE RULES...

Residence Life Staff curbs any possibility for boredom on campus

Residence Life continues to be a powerful force on campus, providing activities, entertainment and free food to all students at OWU. The Resident Assistants staff these events in addition to putting in many hours patrolling the halls and settling roommate disputes. The 24/7 job is not for everyone and only those who hold the title can truly understand the effort it takes to control a residence hall, especially when it is at 3 a.m. in the morning during another false fire alarm.

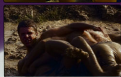

Events sponsored by ResLife throughout the year are numerous. The year begins with the annual inauguration of the mud pits on Fraternity Circle for Founders Hall Mud Volleyball. Freshmen make friends while knee-deep in the cool sludge while competing against experienced upperclassmen for the title.

Clark Hall's Trick-or-Treat event brings the community to campus. Children can walk through decorated residence halls to gather treats from college students. During the Lima Complex Mardi Gras and Stansburg's Y's Luau, the college students treat themselves to fun and games while pretending to be in distant locales.

Magjett Hall's Survivor was an especially large success this year. The event took place over Sibs' Weekend and featured prizes such as an iPod and giftcards. The apartments' ResLife staff focused on service, running a clothing drive for the Ada Brothers.

Changes in residence halls brought a new dynamic to ResLife. The opening of the Stadium View apartments and Affinity Housing, as well as the remodeling done in the Lima Complex, provided challenges for students and RA's alike in these different environments. Future housing changes include remodeling of the new residence hall, tearing down Clark Hall, acquiring additional apartment-style campus housing and even building a hotel. Students are eager for increased housing selections as the campus population burgeons.

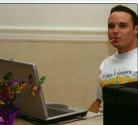

While some students worry about their future housing arrangements and RA's that will not let them break, visitation or party in their rooms, many are grateful for the presence of such an active staff. RA P2 Jay Anderson says, "From being a member of the awesome Clark Hall staff, to participating in the many all-campus events ResLife sponsors, it's good to be part of such an amazing organization. I have no doubt that 2007-08 will be even better!"

1. During Sibs' Weekend, being a student of OWU was not required to have fun. Students and siblings competed together and against each other at Magjett Hall Survivor.

2. A miniature Wizard of Oz cast showed up for this year's Clark Hall Trick-or-Treat, this time on a mission for some sweets.

RELIGIOUS LIFE

Breaking out of the Chapel

Students at Ohio Northern have been breaking out by breaking into religious life on campus during the 2008-2009 school year. The importance of spiritual life on campus is shown through each organization's continued compassion and commitment to their cause, benefiting the community, campus and the student members who are strengthened and challenged through their participation.

The Methodist-affiliated university offers a variety of opportunities for students to grow, discover and reflect while participating in new projects and groups. Two new outreach groups, The Orange Noises, a street ministry, and People of Worship, a praise and worship team of musicians and singers, joined the chapel groups this year.

The school year showed a lot of promise with increased membership and event attendance within the larger service and fellowship groups. Seth Campbell, PG and President of Sigma Theta Epsilon, stated, "We have been encouraged by the level of passion that the freshmen have brought to our organization. Our younger brothers have done a great job in being resilient and making every event a success." And each event, whether it was STE's hog roast for the Hardin County Hospice, Habitat for Humanity's Spaghetti Dinner to help rebuild the Ada Food Pantry or the Broken Yoke Concert put on by Fellowship of Christian Athletes, was a huge success and earned a well-deserved Melode Hall, President of Christian Pharmacists Fellowship International, stated, "It was a great year for us." Our biggest event thus far was Polar Plunge and Sleep Over sponsored with sponsorship of Christian Athletes we organized a day for children 5 month-12 years of age while their parents went Christmas shopping. It was like a one day vacation Bible school."

When students weren't busy in class, studying or participating elsewhere on campus, many could be found in the chapel for daily prayer, meditation or service. "Week in and week out two worship opportunities are offered in the chapel, each one draws in well over 100 students. In addition, our monthly mass held on the second Sunday during the academic year draws hundreds of our Catholic students," according to the university's Chaplain Vernon Lasala, who takes pride in the continued support he sees for religious life on campus.

BREAKING BORDERS

International and Exchange Students

Students at Ohio Northern University look forward to every opportunity to leave campus: studying abroad, holidays and breaks, weekends at home, anytime spent outside of Ada. The eagerness of Northern students to leave Ada matches the enthusiasm with which exchange and international students come to Ada.

Mikko Rankaanpaa, a Political Science major and Johanna Turunen, an International Studies major, are both exchange students from Joensuu, Finland. Rankaanpaa chose to study at ONU because of "good feedback from last year's exchange students and a program that works well with the University of Joensuu." Turunen adds that "Ada is a sweet little town. I've noticed that all the people are very nice and helpful."

While Rankaanpaa and Turunen are enjoying time abroad, both miss Finland. Turunen says, "I never thought this would be possible, to miss the snow and darkness we have during the winter." Rankaanpaa does not like the fact that "there is no ice hockey hall in Ada."

Exchange students also come from the Arnhem Business College in the Netherlands. These students include Amparo Madrigal, an International Business and Economics major, who is originally from Mexico, and Junping Yu, an Accounting major, who is originally from China. In addition to exchange students, Ohio Northern University has set a personal record this year for the number of international students on campus. These students come from Saudi Arabia, Japan, Korea and China. Unlike exchange students, the international students plan to complete their degrees at ONU, not just take classes for a quarter or two.

Muhammad AlJumaili, from Makkah, Saudi Arabia, is a 21-year-old student who completed two years of pharmacy school in Saudi Arabia. AlJumaili says "I got a scholarship from the Ministry of Higher Education to come study in the US." Keiko Oka, a General Studies major from Watarai-gun, Mie, Japan, came here because "first of all I loved American culture and was fascinated to be speaking my second language so much, and I just wanted to change my life."

The differences for AlJumaili between home and Ada are many: "the weather is completely different, the style of the life and the culture are different too." Like AlJumaili, Oka confronts many differences as well. She says, "I would like to especially emphasize the beauty of the sunset here. I had never seen such beautiful sunsets, which you probably take for granted. I am so attached to the beauty of the nature in Ada."

Whether it is a good academic program, a scholarship, or sunsets, these students from foreign countries are excited to be in Ada at Ohio Northern as they make the most of their time abroad and this opportunity to advance their studies.

1. Muhammad "Hamoudy" AlJumaili is an international student from Saudi Arabia who is studying pharmacy.

2. Keiko Oka is an international student from Watarai-gun, Mie, Japan.

2) Mikko Kankaanpää is an exchange student from the University of Joensuu, Finland. He is a Political Science major.

3) Johanna Kosunen is an exchange student from the University of Joensuu, Finland. She is an international studies major.

4) Anapari "Lily" Mairagel is an exchange student from the Northern Business College in the Netherlands, through originally she is from Mexico. She is studying International Business and Economics at OBU.

BREAKING BOUNDARIES

Ohio Northern students make it happen

"Snorkeling and scuba diving on the Great Barrier Reef was an unforgettable experience that everyone should have," says Jacobus Campbell, a senior Preceptor Biology student who studied abroad in Roshthampton, Australia. Students from Ohio Northern University travel across the world, from Mexico to Australia, studying in new environments.

Allison Fuesst, a senior Spanish Education major, studied in Guanajuato, Mexico. One way that she immersed herself in the culture was by living with a host family. She says, "You get to experience the culture a lot faster when you live with a host family." Steven Bercht, a junior Computer Science major, who studied in Pau, France, immersed himself in the culture with "amazing friends that I'm still close to, even if they live half-way around the country or even half-way around the world." Whether they stayed with host families or with peers in student housing, these students learned much and enjoyed themselves.

Reasons for studying abroad are innumerable: some reasons that students leave ONU are to improve their foreign language skills, learn more about their field of study and to experience different cultures. Sarah Mosley, a senior Literature major, spent her summer at Oxford University in England. She says, "I went abroad to study Shakespeare with the experts. I returned home with a better understanding of the bard, the world and myself."

What's After: a junior Spanish major who studied in Spain. "What's After" is still that no matter where students study or why they choose to go, they return with more than academic knowledge and fun memories. Aida says "I think what is gained is an understanding, a coming to terms with yourself. You ask: what your ambitions are, who you are, who you want to be. You begin to find out what is important in life and realize how naive you are."

These students who were brave enough to go far away from everyone and everything they knew for the opportunity to study abroad agree that it was worth it. Jenna Makowski, a senior Music major who studied in Cork, Ireland, says, "Take full advantage of every opportunity given to you, and if they aren't given to you, make them happen."

J. Senior Allison Fuesst takes a break from her adventures for a picture. Fuesst traveled the Mexican summer road to advance her education.

2. Senior Jacques Campbell poses with friends at a scenic lookout point in Australia.

3. Senior Jenna Makowski perches on top of cliffs along the coast of Ireland. Makowski studied at University College Cork for one semester in 2006.

4. Kate Arida pauses for a moment in the streets of Bilbao, Spain for a picture.

Junior International Business and Economics major Nicole Muryn spent time studying in France. But Muryn's not all business, she also traveled through the wine country.

Senior Environmental Studies major Evan Sterling helped catch and mount sharks while studying in Cuba during the fall of 2006.

CAMPUS JOBS

Working Hard for the Money

"I need money because I am a poor college student." This phrase can be heard daily from students paying over $36,000 a year for their education. However, the "poor college student" can help him or herself by obtaining a job on campus, a special skills job or an off-campus job.

Student employment is an option of which most students take advantage. Students with work study have first priority for on-campus jobs and are awarded a certain number of hours of work based on their financial aid. Some of the jobs that are available on campus are in food service, in the library or as a desk worker in the residence halls. Clark Hall desk worker P1 Jay Anderson describes working the desk as "laid back. It's a good job to have because it is not stressful."

Special skills jobs are jobs that students receive based on any unique skills they may have. These jobs utilize students' skills and prepare them for careers, and include jobs such as lab assistants or research workers. Sarah Mosley, senior Literature major, writes for various publications at the Law College. She says, "Writing and editing articles is a great way for me to apply what I've learned in class and get real world experience while earning some cash."

If students do not wish to work for OIU, they can break out of campus and seek an off-campus job. There are a number of places that seek to employ students, such as Taco Bell, US Bank and Pedrone's. Sophomore Psychology major Ropes Scholtz chose to work at Pedrone's instead of being a weekend janitor for her residence hall. "It's much easier when you can work as many hours as I want. A downside of off-campus jobs is that the number of hours you can work is limited."

Being a poor college student is hard, but jobs are available to ease this difficulty. By breaking away from studies once in a while, students can earn a buck or two on the side while maintaining their GPA.

1. Tiffanie Floate studies to pass the time while working at her desk job. Handing out newspapers, ping pong paddles, games and kitchen supplies are just some of many objects that a student working the front desk of any hall can distribute.

1. Through rain, sleet and snow, Jen Smith sorts mail inside Montrose. The campus provides a mail delivery system that frequents all buildings at campus three times a day and also picks up mail and packages from the Ada Post Office.

2. Brierley Davis Withrow seals envelopes in the recruiting office in the Longhorn Sports Center. Be careful not to get a papercut! Davis, Blambaugh III's Justin Campbell and Angie Tribble prepare spaghetti for their residents in a program entitled "We Feed You." Programs are just one of many tasks every RA completes each month.

DAILY LIFE

Writing, reading, rithmetic and relaxation

College is about getting an education, right? Northern students spend much of their time doing just that: studying, researching, writing, reading and attending classes. However, all students would agree that there is more to college life than academics. It may be difficult to find free time, but students know the value of relaxing and spending time with friends. While maintaining their grades, students find time for clubs, sports, jobs and friends.

PH Robert Oeder says that "My daily schedule involves a lot of class time. I also have a job at Pine Aid in Lima that I work." Balancing classes and working a job can be stressful, but many students choose to work so that they can afford books, dinner or a significant other. Freshman Creative Writing major Amy Brabensee says, "My schedule is laid back, aside from the mountains of homework. I get up, go to class, work at the Freed Center, eat, come back to my room and do homework. If I had more free time I would probably write, read and watch movies."

Movies, video games and television are popular ways for students to relax. These entertainment sources allow them to relax and take a break from the stress of everyday life. Another way to take a break from the stress of classes is by hitting the gym. Eric Thatcher, a sophomore Sports Management major and member of the ONU Men's Cross Country team, says, "Being involved in cross country keeps me busy, and running is a great way for me to get my focus off of class and other problems."

Students eagerly await each weekend for the opportunity to spend two full days without attending class, often procrastinating finishing homework until late Sunday night to make the most of days that can be spent as pleased. Some college students over the age of 21 might agree with Oeder, who says, "My favorite weekend activity is patronizing the bars of Ada with my friends." However, every college student would agree with Brabensee, who says, "My favorite weekend activity is sleeping because I definitely do not get enough of it during the week!"

3. A typical room where college students can often be found at their desks in front of a computer; as demonstrated here by Ryan Chisum (chatting an instant message), searching the internet or writing a paper, a computer is an important part of every college student's life.

2. The chill of the Ada winds freezes the bones of students on a walk from Hill to Meyer.
3. Once a student has attained junior status and moved out of the residence halls, they can abandon Nittosiah meals. Danielle Deslauriers and Jean Paul prepare to enjoy their home-cooked meal.
4. Taking a break from studying, Erik Selzer participates in a favorite campus activity: ping pong.
5. Summer Hall looks out on her keyboard. Many students listen to or play music to relax after classes and study.

OHIO NORMAL SCHOOL

Now and then in Ada, OH

In the fast-world-that-we-live-in today, it is hard to imagine that things were ever different. Looking back to the early-20th century reveals many shocking differences from today that help put life in perspective.

In 1871, Northwestern Ohio Normal School was founded by Henry Solomon Lehr; the school mascot was a goat. Today, we know Northwestern Ohio Normal School as Ohio Northern University, home of the Polar Bears. As its first 30 years passed, the college enrolled 300 students yearly, which is a far cry from the 3,500 enrolled today. "It'd be interesting if there were only 300 people on campus!" says sophomore Language Arts Education major Summer Hall. "You'd know everyone by first, last and middle name!"

The majors of accounting and mechanical engineering were available from the university in 1901. An accountant's starting annual salary was about $2,000 a year, while the mechanical engineer earned more than double that amount, at $5,000 a year. "How'd I feel if I only earned $2,500 a year?" asked Accounting major David Williams. His answer: "Hungry and sad." Discounting inflation, today's accountants expect to earn 2000 times as much as they did in 1901, at $44,000 a year and mechanical engineers work hard for their $65,000 a year.

Many other interesting differences exist between life in 1901 and 2006. For example, in 1901 only 8% of homes across America owned a working telephone while today every residence ~~hall room~~ is equipped with one.

When it came to hygiene, ~~was standard at the start of the 20th century~~ for females to only wash their hair once a month, using bars or egg yolk for shampoo. Also, ~~common goods were less expensive back in the good ol' days.~~ It only cost 15 cents for the coffee-loving college student to purchase a pound of coffee. Nowadays $9.95 is the price for a pound of good Starbucks ground coffee. And many objects that are taken for granted today did not even exist in 1901, such as cell phones, scotch tape, crossword puzzles and canned soda.

Was life better or easier in 1901? Were the Northwestern Ohio Normal School Goats a fiercer opponent than the Ohio Northern University Polar Bears on the playing field? What would life be like without scotch tape? These questions and more are important to consider as we continually struggle to break out from the past, embrace the present and prepare for the future.

1. A typical telephone in the early 2000's. It sure is a lot bigger than today's cell phones!
2. The Northern on Main sign stands just across from the main campus entrance. When students need a caffeine boost to get through a night of cramming, "NOM" is the place to go. It is the only place in Ada where you can get Starbucks coffee.
3. Students pack into an old model car. It's unlikely that they were driving to Lanes for a Wal-Mart shopping excursion, which is popular among students today.

4. The Peter Bear mascot was apparently responsible for making signs to cheer on the football team. Were there no fans or cheerleaders to help him?
5. Participants line up for a cart race. One student propelled the car and one student rode in it.
6. It appears that one thing hasn't changed: the notorious Alibi winter. Here, five male students gather around a giant snowball they created outside of their residence hall.

7. Climbing on books, logs and heads to reach the top of a point? This would not be a Residence Life sponsored event today.

8. It's girls' night in Women in the 2000s needed time to relax and gossip about men, just as they do today. Here, they play a game of cards - is it poker?
9. Even at the turn of the 20th century CWU students were curious about their studies. It wasn't until this year that the Lima Complex changed from this study room to modern suites.

GUESTS AND EVENTS

Breaking it Up

This year a large variety of speakers, presenters and acts drew a large crowd at every occasion. Ohio Northern invites numerous acts to campus to entertain the student population and also to introduce the students to different events that most people would not think of attending on a normal day. With the admission costs low and manageable, ONU students find themselves flocking to events held in the Freed Center and hosted by SPC. Well-known bands, hypnotists, mind readers and comedians rocked Ohio Northern's campus with their well-laid presentations.

The OAR concert during homecoming weekend was one of the most anticipated events, as OAR took the stage in King Horn and blasted their well-known lyrics from the speakers. OAR left a huge impact on the student population as the students demanded an encore and erupted in applause when they played a few more numbers.

Frederick Winters, the hypnotist that visited ONU's Sports Complex on January 19, 2007, recruited a large crowd from the students who were packed as close as possible in the north gym to get everyone in. Winters hypnotized numerous students and had them perform some feats such as riding a bike, walking on their hands, and even making them forget their name and feeling as if they were lost because they had no recollection of their name. Freshman nursing major Lori Sutherland expressed her opinion about the hypnotic show, "It was a great event that SPC offered. I laughed a lot and had a good time. It was nice that Winters included everyone in the show and you could tell that he really enjoys his job and has fun doing it. I just had a great time!"

The Student Planning Committee puts on a number of events throughout the year that students are able to attend for free. The Winter Coolers Musical Comedy held in the Freed Center on September 23, 2006, was a mix of music and comedy that revolves around a water cooler. One of the more popular events at the Freed Center this academic year was the presentation of The Male Intellect: An Overture where males and females had the opportunity to see what truly goes through a man's head and for what reasons.

A cultural event that was held at the Freed Center was the Mexican Puppet Show, "Marias and the Strawberry Cake," where Mexicans put on their only performance in the USA for children. P1 Katie Salay commented, "The puppets that were involved in the Mexican Puppet Show ranged from sock puppet size, all the way to puppets that were twice as big as the people that were putting on the show; it was different, but more focused towards younger children."

L2 Katrina Gallo especially enjoyed "Isla El Tango" which featured Argentinean dancers and an Argentinean band. A dancer herself, Gallo loved "The costumes were beautiful and the dancing was amazing. It was a great opportunity for students to see international dancing. The dancers and musicians offered workshops on tango for students to learn more and even performed at the Honors Program Fiesta.

While Ada may be a small town without much entertainment to offer, the university and student organizations provide ample opportunities for students to laugh, live and learn with special guests and events throughout the year.

1. Professor Loughlin introduces the key speaker for the evening, Dr. A. F. Alhaji, to talk about energy independence. Dr. Alhaji is an expert on the oil industry.

2. Students packed the gymnasium to listen to OAR during homecoming weekend. SPC sponsored the event along with the homecoming committee providing fun entertainment that everyone could enjoy.

3. The event that students don't want to miss every year is typhoid Frederick Winters. It is the biggest event on campus every year.

4. The typhoid also provides students with the option to learn about nutrition and other health benefits. Students could taste smoothies, have themselves checked or body fat measured.

5. The typhoid Center is responsible for many of the great performances on campus. Heather Schell dances on the stage during "Close Up a Mattress."

6. How low can you go? Students participated in many games including the limbo during the typhoid event.

STAYING FIT

Breaking from the books to break a sweat

After a long day of class PA Lauren Creek works off her classroom wheeler on the treadmill. For some, working out is part of their daily ritual.

Sophomore Journalism major Rachelle Pavalik offers a helping hand to PA Josh Weaver as she attempts to bench press.

PA Jon Crowley lifts a one-handed bar bell to help improve his biceps.

When most people think about college, they think of breaking out the books. While this is accurate, there are many other activities people choose to do every day here at ONU. Many of these activities revolve around staying fit, as ONU offers a variety of facilities and opportunities of which students, faculty and staff can take advantage.

One of the most popular places to break a sweat on campus is the King Horn Sports Complex. Equipped with a field house, gymnasium, swimming pool, racquetball courts, and fitness and weight rooms, the complex presents itself as a great option for a study break. Jamal Jones, a P1, is one who takes advantage of the complex and says, "Playing pick-up basketball games is a good way to work out and get away from school life."

King Horn is not the only place you can exercise: the Smile path that surrounds campus, better known as the Green Monster, is easily accessible and provides a convenient gateway for runners, joggers and bikers.

For those who prefer a more structured workout, the Northern Humberg, also the Green Monster, is a secondary workout to dancing here at Northern. She says, "I've been dancing all my life; it's kind of like my sport. Running keeps up my endurance and gives me a different kind of workout."

Intramurals are another great way to stay fit and have fun, and are a big part of campus life at Ohio Northern. Ultimate Frisbee, flag football, softball, and soccer are some of the more popular teams that are assembled. Students can also be found out on the track daily, relaxing and enjoying time with friends while playing catch, kickball or even croquet.

College is not just breaking out the books and studying. Ohio Northern provides its students with ample opportunities to take a break, have fun and break a sweat.

HONORING OUR LEADERS

Honors Day and The President's Leadership Dessert

Students who spend record-breaking amounts of time in the library do not do so in vain. Saturday May 8, 2007, Honors Day events spread throughout the day are the reward for such dedication to academics and the library's reading hours. Throughout the day, individual departments and organizations recognize students in small ceremonies. At 11 a.m. the Honors Day Convocation begins. Students are recognized for their achievements, listen to a speaker, then attend a luncheon.

The featured speaker was L.M. student Olesandr "Sasha" Kondratyuk, an international student from Kyiv, Ukraine who spoke on "Living in the Globalized, Shrinking World: Challenges and Opportunities." President of Honors Council, senior history major Elizabeth Drummond, Vice President senior biochemistry major Christopher Lemon and Secretary PS Stephanie Muss also took part in the ceremony.

First time Honors Day participant sophomore Denise Jensen, a literature and political science double major noted, "My favorite moment of Honors Day was seeing the pride on my parents' faces when they watched my initiations and met my professors for the first time."

Academic success is only one part of Northern life. In addition to recognizing academic success, CMU also recognizes student leaders every year at the President's Leadership Dessert, held this year on May 8, 2007. Various leaders of campus organizations are recognized for their work so that they grasp the importance and vitality of their positions in the Ohio Northern community.

Three organizations were awarded the Most Valuable Organization of the Year Award at the Dessert. These organizations were Greek K, Kappa Epsilon and Habitat for Humanity. Individual student leaders were also recognized with the Dabow Freed Leadership Awards. The recipients at the freshman level were P1 Allise Lawitt and Civil Engineering major Chris Senesi; at the sophomore level, Nursing major Jessica Morelli and P3 Todd Segal; at the junior level, Music Education major Kristen McDowell and Management major Zachary Huffman; at the senior level, Management major Katie Geise and P4 Brett Kutzberger.

Senior Psychology major Scott Parson, who was a part of the Planning Committee for the Dessert, felt that the event was, "a chance for all the student leaders on campus to relax, enjoy themselves and be recognized for their hard work all year. CMU's student organizations are so great because of our great leaders and I think recognizing them is important."

Whether students are receiving pins and certificates at honorary initiations or cheese cake and chocolate-covered strawberries while being recognized for their contributions to campus, Northern students are acknowledged for their wide range of contributions to campus.

1. Nick Frankie received several awards at the College of Business Honors Day presentation. He is shown with Dr. Nicholas Goveas, who presented several of his awards.

2. Liz Drummond, president of the Honor's Council, comments at the convocation ceremony.

3. As part of the convocation ceremonies, students stand in recognition of the various honoraries they are apart of.

4. Bob Dawson and Angela Mappert can't resist the chocolate fountain...before the dessert begins guests are able to mingle with friends and enjoy a chocolate covered Alacemy.

5. Caroline Gehret explains the requirements for the Debow Freed Award and what it means to be a leader.

7. Winners of the Alice H. Hildebrand Student Organizations of the Year are Toriya Stenger (Phi Kappa Theta), Justin Harpold (Habitat for Humanity), and Susan Warrington (Circle K).

WE ARE GRADUATING!

Professional presentations and a parting party

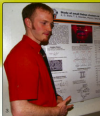

This year's senior projects came from all areas of study, ranging from studying abroad to student teaching and research and design to co-op capstone presentations. Senior Communication Arts major Emily Llewellyn spent the summer in Grenoble, France, putting her French knowledge to work as she was offered an experience of a lifetime at L'Université de Grenoble, Stendhal. Mark Stevens, a senior Technology major shared his research on Ultracapacitors and his competitive robot design during his capstone presentation. Senior Political Science major Ryan Soto shared his new found expertise during his presentation in ODU's Dickel Forum. No matter what their major is, the majority of ODU students complete some type of final senior project. These seniors then have the opportunity to put their knowledge to work in one final professional presentation in front of their professors, peers and the public.

Once the work was done, seniors began their transition towards becoming alumni as they headed to Lima's Civic Center for this year's Senior Send-off. More than enough pizza, cake and drinks were on site for the attending students. Casino games filled the floor, and students were given additional tickets for chances to win one of many amazing prizes, including a trip to Las Vegas. These games and prizes provided an exciting night for all the soon-to-be graduates. Dana Weigel, a senior majoring in International Studies, reflected on the event, saying, "What a wonderful way to spend my time." ODU's faculty and staff acted as the casino dealers, while wishing the students the best of luck in their future endeavors. Dr. Baker and his wife, Toby, were onsite as well, mingling with the students as they enjoyed the night.

The senior projects offered an opportunity to wrap up all that was learned academically throughout the years, while the senior sendoff offered the same opportunity to wrap up the social connections developed throughout students' college careers. Whatever the event, being a senior is always exciting.

1. Ryan Soto tries to prove his point during his Business Policy and Strategy senior project.
2. Jeff Wiley opens his presentation for his engineering group.
3. Kevin Wells sets up a posterboard detailing his project for the Honors Program. After each student presented, they went out to the hall for students and faculty to ask their questions.

6. Witek Suchan is ready to play blackjack against his fellow classmates.
7. Tim Olson deals at the blackjack table.
8. President Tim Baker was at the event to talk and tell "hang out" with the students one last time before graduation.

9. Besides the games and prizes, the food was the next best thing of the night. It featured pizza, chicken wings, and fresh fruit and vegetables.
10. Ben Arnett and Melissa Paradise place their tickets into the prize buckets.
11. Director of Alumni, Ann Connolly, cuts the cake and prepares to serve it to students. Katie Geller is trying a piece of the chocolate.

1. Dean David Craigie and faculty members place the hood over the U.S. M graduate's head.
2. Deanna Cook graduated at the top of her class and gave the student address.
3. A happy graduate receives his degree from President Ken Baker after walking across the stage.
4. The Honorable Judge Thomas F. Bryant makes a few remarks after receiving an Honorary Degree.

5. The U.S. M students stand at the front of class. This is the first year for the program at ONU!

6. Ohio State Treasurer, Richard Cordray, delivers the commencement address. As a lawyer himself, he knows how exciting graduation is for these students.

LAW COMMENCEMENT

L3's become Lawyers

Graduating for the third time is a feat only a select few can claim. Lawyers have made their way through high school, college, and now the prestigious law school. The 2007 College of Law Commencement ceremony was held on Sunday, May 13, in the ONU Sports Center. Approximately 100 students made their way across the stage. President Baker presided over the ceremony.

For the first time in school history, the university awarded LL.M. degrees to lawyers from transitional and emerging democracies. These students completed a yearlong course of intensive study in the Democratic Governance and Rule of Law program at ONU.

Student speaker and valedictorian L3 Deanna Cook delivered the student address. L3 Gregory Jones gave the invocation and his classmate L3 Kristen Vogtsberger gave the benediction. Featured vocalists were L3 Donald Hannah and LL.M. student Giv Kutstas. Guest speaker Richard Cordray, Ohio Treasurer of State, provided the commencement address. He was elected in 2006 and manages all banking functions for the state of Ohio and an investment portfolio averaging $11 billion. He was first Franklin County Treasurer and a teacher at Ohio State University's Law School for 10 years.

At the ceremony, students were sworn to uphold Thomas F. Bryant. Bryant earned his law degree from ONU in 1986, serving for 18 years on the Ohio Third District Court of Appeals from 1998 to 2006.

Students were headed by Dean David C. Gragg and then proceeded with a diploma presentation.

The Deans, Vice Presidents, Dr. Allen Baker and others involved in the ceremony take their place on stage after the procession.

GRADUATION!

Hard work pays off

With great anticipation, seniors awaited Commencement 2007. Flying through finals, senior projects and a wide-range of other end-of-the-year obligations, seniors looked forward to walking across the stage and receiving their diploma. Some of these seniors will go on to graduate school, others will enter the workforce. Regardless of what the future holds, the first step there is onto a stage towards President Baker, who waits with a diploma in hand for each graduating senior.

Commencement activities began on Saturday, May 19 with commencement rehearsal and a reception for the graduating seniors and their families at President Baker's house. Sunday, May 20 was filled with even more exciting activities. Seniors and their families spent their mornings in a variety of ways: at ROTC Commissioning of senior Electrical Engineering major Andrew Freeman and senior Electrical Engineering major Adam Wallace, at the Carlebach Award presentation to winners Phil Mary Ann Murphy and senior Criminal Justice major Autumn Long, at the Honors Program breakfast in recognition of graduating seniors and award winners senior Biology major Matthew Haldeman and senior Literature major Sarah Meszley, or at the College of Pharmacy Hooding Ceremony. These activities were followed by a worship service and a buffet.

The long-awaited graduation ceremony began in the afternoon as guests filed into the Sports Center and took their seats. Dr. Charles Baker led the band as they played musical preludes and processional music as the faculty and students processed into the Sports Center. Phil Kevill '06, who plays Memories of Men, says, "The music was especially appropriate this year, because many of the songs were written by Poole Williams, a professor who died earlier in the year."

Commencement featured special music by the band and singers Adriane Thompson-Bradshaw and Professor Kirsten O'Brien Marley, speaker ESPN sportscaster Brian Kenny and student speaker senior History major Dustin Wickensham. President Baker led the ceremony and handed out the diplomas to the graduating seniors as his. Thompson-Bradshaw read their names. Wickensham says, "My biggest challenge was writing a speech for such a wide variety of audience members. Not to mention the high level of expectation that is put on such an honor."

After receiving their diplomas, seniors were reunited with their families and attended the individual college receptions held in tents outside. Commencement 2007 was a success and ONU graduates and their families proudly fulfilled their part in the ceremony.

2. Alberta Johnson became the latest individual to graduate from Ohio Northern University. Dean Mancini is the first to congratulate her on the stage.

3. The final test, moving the tassel from the right side to the left.

4. ESPN Sportscaster Brian Ferry was the guest speaker. He gave the students eight key factors to remember in life.
 5. William E. Felt received an honorary doctorate of pharmacy degree. He is headed by Dean Jim Sprague.
 6. Chelsea Ratt proudly shows her electronic "GEE" on her cap on her way to the stage. Way to put that electrical engineering degree to use!

7. Bishop James Griffin received a doctorate of divinity degree during the commencement ceremony.
 8. Duke Blockwurm provided the student address.
 9. Jake Bennett and Bart Hoelzler smile for one last picture before living up for the professionals!

NEW FACES

Breaking into the crowd

"I love teaching and interacting
with students.
I think being a teacher is the most beautiful job
in this world."

HUI SHEN

Assistant Professor of Mechanical Engineering

It is the experiences of those that have been here

And the drive of the ones who come with new and exciting ideas.

It is the solidified knowledge of those who understand

Mixed with the enthusiasm of those who are eager to learn.

It is the memories and of the past, and the lessons that we have learned.

Joined with innovative ideas and hope for the future.

It is this balance, of the old and new together,

Which allows us to grow; which allows us to thrive.

Remember what was before you.

With every new school year, students are not the only thing that is new around campus. Each year we have new faculty and staff as well. This year 35 new faculty came to Ohio Northern University. They bring to campus not only their knowledge but experiences and backgrounds that keep the students happy to see them in class every day.

TAREK MAHFUD

Assistant Professor of Pharmaceutical Chemistry

"Patience, perseverance and never give up. If you feel you want to do something and you feel it is the right thing for you to do, try different approaches but never give up. Do not listen to what people say, do not get discouraged by what you hear and do not get overwhelmed. Things take time to work just make sure you are doing the right thing."

KAZUHISA HATSUDA

Assistant Professor of Economics

FACE OF EXPERIENCE

Guidance to help others break out!

“Ever since I have become a part of ONU (1968) my goal has been to provide my students with a window to the outside world. Being rural and geographically isolated does not have to mean being parochial. My role as a teacher and mentor has always been guided by the desire to broaden horizons, to bring students closer to the richness and the variety of our global political experience. In this endeavor I have been a lucky person, because this concern has always drawn the best of students and it has provided me with a constant source of challenges. The Model UN, of which I have been the advisor since 1974, has in its own way helped me to become an interactive teacher, an involved colleague and an activist citizen.”

GREEK LIFE

1. Senior members of Alpha Xi Delta pose with their Greek letters before the new members are allowed into the field house to join their sisters. For all sisters, Bid Day at AXD is a day they will never forget!

2. A typical Bid Day scene: girls taking a celebratory ride around Fraternity Circle with all of their sisters—there is always a lot of activity; girls let everyone else on campus know that they are Greek and proud of it!

3. Jeremy Baker and Joey Dearthout wait for their new brothers to come pick up their bids. Even though the laterality Bid Day is not as action-packed as the sorority Bid Day, the guys still enjoy welcoming new members.

4. Nothing can keep the Delta Zeta girls calm as their new sisters walk through the door of King's Room. Screams of excitement can be heard across campus all day!

ONU BID DAY

Breaking Into Greek Life

The excitement. The suspense. The day that ends the secretive rules and festivities. To an outsider of Greek Life, the Bid Day hoopla may seem like strange, foreign territory. Sorority girls agree that Bid Day is the peak of the recruitment process because it is when each sorority gains new members. Bridgette Berry, a sophomore Early Childhood Education major and Kappa Alpha Theta member, explains the event: "We all gather at 11:00 AM and wait for our new girls to get there. Then we all run and jump at each other and celebrate." Sophomore Language Arts Education major, Melissa Widman, says, "It's a matching system; we hope our favorites choose us. We spend time beginning when students arrive on campus to meet potential sorority members, and when the girls go through rounds we make connections with certain girls and hope they choose us on Bid Day!" Widman is a member of Delta Zeta, which received 31 new girls, exceeding their quota.

Bid Day is an exciting time for sororities, yet it also has its challenges. Casey Arsenal, senior Marketing and Management major and President of Zeta Tau Alpha, explains, "Bid day is one of the most special days on a sorority's calendar because it is the day that you see the women that will be the future of your sisterhood. It can also be very challenging as you are trying to get girls to join an organization that they can only understand from the outside, and what truly makes a Zeta a Zeta comes in the 1200 hours a girl spends on campus."

Overall, Bid Day is an event built up with anticipation that is hardly understood by those who are not members; sophomore Early Childhood Education and Psychology major Becca Meredith, says, "Everything leads up to that one day, when each sisterhood gets to welcome in a new class of amazing girls. There's no feeling like it!" All in all, Bid Day is an exciting time for sorority sisters, as P4 Panhellenic Council President, Meghan Davis, sums up, "The excitement builds around the hope of what lies within each ladies' new found chapter - a personal cheering squad, a shoulder to cry on and a home away from home."

5. Right before the doors are opened, Kappa Alpha Theta members prepare for the arrival of their new "bambies." Balloons are just some of the gifts that new members receive on Bid Day.

1. Casey Amend parties with her Delta sisters while portraying Nix during the Greek Sing competition.

2. Action is intense during the first volleyball tournament as Bryan Mahanty spikes the ball at his Sigma Pi opponents. Since it is the last event of the week, it determines the winner.

3. The pyramid is only as strong as the links below you. The Phi Mu Delta pyramid is up, but is starting to become shaky.

4. Alpha Alpha Theta sisters Amanda Hitchens, Katie Galtbreath, Beth Guichie, Jane Waldman and Ryan Williams participate in the Juggled race.

GREEK WEEK

A week dedicated to all that Greeks have to offer

This year's Greek Week theme, "It's All Greek to Me," allowed each fraternity and sorority to express itself through its own theme. Divisual themes included Delta Zeta's "Greek Lightning," Theta Chi's "Welcome to the Family," Sigma Phi's "Cowboys and Indians" and Kappa Alpha Theta's "All Star."

In true Greek Week fashion, the week started with Greek Sing. Zeta Tau Alpha did "I Want to Rock and Roll All Night" featuring senior management major Casey Amend as Gene Simmons and the brothers of Theta Chi did "Dirty Deeds, Done Dirt" featuring senior Psychology major Brian Chadwell as Don Corleone. Both of these acts won Greek Sing for the sororities and fraternities respectively. Amend says, "I really love Greek sing, and usually Zeta really rocks this event and walks out with first place."

The Greek God and Goddess of the Week are determined by penny wars, where pennies lose you points and all other change nominations give you points. This year Greek God was Junior Management major Tony Beltz of Phi Mu Delta and the Greek Goddess was Psi Kappa Mohaupt of Alpha Xi Delta.

Greek Chapel this year was followed by a rock and tree dedication to Rob Rittenhouse of Sigma Phi Epsilon, who passed away earlier this year. A new addition to Greek Week events was Greek Bowling, which was won by Delta Sigma Phi and Alpha Xi Delta.

Greek Olympics highlights teamwork and stamina in various activities. Events included the chariot race, a person pyramid and giant jacks, among others. Overall winners of Greek Olympics were the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon and Phi Delta Chi and the sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha. Phi Delta Chi brother P4 Robert Oeder says, "I'm particularly proud that Phi Delta Chi was recognized among the fraternities for having the highest overall GPA." Rounding off the week was volleyball and banner judging. Winners of volleyball were the sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta and the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

At the week's end, overall awards were given. Banner winners were Delta Sigma Phi and Delta Zeta. Most spirited chapter awards went to Alpha Xi Delta and Theta Chi. Overall winners of the week were Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Phi Epsilon. Sophomore Electrical Engineering major and Sigma Phi Epsilon brother Igor Maschewski comments that "Greek Week is a great way for the fraternities and sororities to come together for friendly competition and bonding. It's what Greek life is really all about."

Shirrel Slater is pushed by his Delta Sigma Phi brothers during the annual Greek Chariot race. The race consists of laps around the Polar Bear pond in the center of campus.

Alpha Xi Delta added a dancer to their singing routine. This not only helped them score more points, but it gave them a lead in the competition.

1. Students tangled amongst each other is a normal scene at the Kappa Alpha Theta Twister event. This just proves that philanthropy is not only rewarding, it is fun.

2. Natalie Clark, Sarah Bucant, Christie Steinhilber and Laura Stuber hand out information about breast cancer at the Jeta "Breastfest." This event included speakers, information, and tips to prevent the cancer.

3. Ryland Breeding, Jody Beardsford, Andy-Johanne, Scott Campbell, Dennis P., and Jeff Wendisch hold an event for the Altruistic Campus Experience that stimulates philanthropy.

GREEK PHILANTHROPY

Making a positive impact

Becoming part of a Greek organization is not just about making new friends and wearing letters. It is a chance to give back to the community, whether it is raising money for a cause or cleaning up local highways. Each year the fraternities and sororities participate in many activities in supporting their organization's chosen philanthropy.

Philanthropic events for the 2006-2007 included "Buy-A-R" sponsored by Sigma Pi, "Theta Twister" sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta, the "Belly Bottle Change Drive" sponsored by Phi Delta Chi, the "24-Hour Marathon" sponsored by Theta Chi, the "Green Classic Golf Outing" sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha and "Buy-A-Woo" sponsored by Delta Zeta. Each of these events raised money for various worthy causes, such as the American Lung Association, Heartbeat Crisis Pregnancy Center and Court Appointed Special Advocates. Katie Wiederhold, President of Delta Zeta, says, "Buy-a-Woo is [Delta Zeta's] biggest fundraiser and it is always very well received by the campus and by those participating. This year with that event alone, we raised over $700."

In addition to raising money for their philanthropy, members of the Greek organizations also participate in activities that allow them to interact with the community. The Adopt-A-Highway program allows fraternities and sororities, such as the brothers of Delta Sigma Phi, to do their part in helping the environment by picking up trash along local highways. The brothers of Delta Sigma Phi also personally visit the Senior Living Community in honor of the Bain Spady Foundation; the brothers of Sigma Pi gave the students of CMU the opportunity to participate in a drunk driving simulation. Phi Delta Chi brothers held a benefit for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, raising over $2,000. The sisters of Alpha Xi Delta held an Essentials Drive for the Samaritan House, a homeless shelter for women and children. They collected various household items, including cleaning supplies, hygiene items and stuffed animals for the children. The brothers of Theta Chi hosted a Casino Night in which they collected canned goods for local food pantries. The sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha sponsored Lee National Denim Day in which high students and faculty were encouraged to donate at least $1 to receive a pink ribbon on National Denim Day in support of the fight against breast cancer.

The fraternities and sororities joined together at Christmas time to sponsor "Fill the Fireplace," where each chapter adopted a family in need and purchased appropriate Christmas presents for them. Whether working together or separately, the Greek organizations at CMU make a positive impact. PZ Rich Boyd, who is a Phi Delta Chi officer, says, "Philanthropy is really important in Greek life. There are so many fortunate people here on campus, and by working together as a chapter, we're able to give a lot back to the community."

4. Kaitlyn Scuse and Kaitlin Mielke host the Delta Zeta "Buy-a-Woo." This event allows students to purchase a Delta Zeta or pair of Deltas for a good cause.

5. Theta Chi held a 24-hour run for their philanthropy event. They ran for those that couldn't.

FOOTBALL

Breaking through the defense

The Ohio Northern Football team was able to break through their opponents' defenses and score a winning season in 2008. The Polar Bear's final record was 8-4 overall and 5-4 in the Ohio Athletic Conference. The men started the season with a 28-14 win against Millikin (Ill.) and ended their season with a huge 52-0 win at Dea-Roberson Stadium against Wilmington.

This season several players received different recognitions for their performance throughout the season. Junior Austin Hatzley was named to the ESPN The Magazine Second Team Academic All Division IV. Senior Jason Truank was named to the First Team All-OAC and also received the Paul Hoenesman Award as OAC Defensive Lineman of the year. Also named to the First Team All-OAC were Junior Lenny Truank and sophomore R.J. Meadows. Sophomore Jake Fells was named to the Second Team All-OAC and senior Aaron Caposito and junior Nate Dunnington both received Honorable Mention All-OAC recognition.

Jason Truank is also ONU's All Time Career leader in sacks with 43 and tackles for loss with 88. He is also sixth All Time ONU with 277 career tackles. Despite a season-ending knee injury, Meadows was third in the league with 724 yards and had the second highest average in the league with 120.7 yards per game.

When the topic of accomplishments came up, senior Deen McGraw said "I think the team's main accomplishment this season was finishing strong after four straight losses. A lot of teams would have given up after that, but we stuck with it and prepared even harder after the losses."

This was the last season for 14 of the players who are graduating and one of them said that "practice was just two hours of hanging out with your best friends and you always know you had that threat of the friendship between the players. It evident once the season was over to end their season on two consecutive wins by sticking together and never giving up."

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Never satisfied

After a very successful season last year, the Lady Beans planned for an even better year both on and off the court this season. While juggling a full load of classes, the team also made coming into the gym to practice a priority. "Coming into the season our goals were to win the OAC regular season and tournament and to make it to the NCAA tournament," states sophomore setter Katie Weisinger. The Lady Beans won the OAC regular season title for the seventh consecutive year and the OAC tournament for the ninth year in Head Coach Kate Witte's career. They also made the NCAA tournament but were eliminated in the first round by Hope (IN) in five games. Overall it was a very successful year as the Lady Beans ended up 27-9 and number 23 in the CSTV/American Volleyball Coaches Association Division III Top 25 poll.

Senior libero Karlee Karasick and junior hitter Laura Vuok were named All-Great Lakes Region first team and All-OAC first team during the year. Weisinger and freshman hitter Liz Schnelle were named All-Great Lakes Region honorable mention and All-OAC second team. Karasick was named OAC Libero of the year; Schnelle was named Region "Freshman of the Year" and OAC "Freshman of the Year." Vuok and Weisinger were both named OAC "Player of the Week" during the season, as well. At various tournaments, Karasick, Schnelle, Weisinger, and Vuok were named to All-Tournament teams. Throughout the year the team was ranked as high as 32nd in the CSTV/American Volleyball Coaches Association Division III Top 25 poll. The Lady Beans even handed Calvin College their only loss of the season.

Weisinger concludes, "This is a season not to forget, as we made memories that will last forever; however, we plan to come out even stronger next season by working hard and improving in our spring season."

4. After finishing the 8th course of Nationals, sophomore Paul Lewis is completely exhausted from battling other runners and the mud.

5. Senior Mark Dorian looks ahead to the next pack of runners before him. With only two seniors on the team, the future looks very bright for the Ohio Northern Men's Cross-Country program because many runners will return for next season.

6. Sophomore Eric Thatcher rounds the corner of a turn to sprint to the finish. The finishing stretch is where the Bears gained the most ground in their opponents, due to their strong desire of wanting "it" more.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Breaking into a whole new level

The 2006 Men's Cross-Country team had the best season in the history of the program. This successful season was highlighted by qualifying for the NCAA Division III National Championships meet after a third place finish at the Great Lakes Regional Championships. Before Regionals, the Bears finished second place in the Ohio Athletic Conference championships, ending the season strong. Their 107 total wins were an OAC record. Northern relied on a strong pack of top runners and their outstanding commitment to achieve these high accolades. The team accomplished these successes through strong work ethic and determination to perform to the best of their abilities throughout a season of challenging five-mile courses.

The Bears were led by sophomore Paul Lewis. Lewis was runner-up in the OAC and placed 13th in the Region. Additional All-OAC awards went to seniors Kevin Heckman and Mark Bieker. All-Region performers for the Bears included Lewis, Heckman, and sophomores James O'Brien and Thomas Adam. Bieker said, "This is the hardest working, most dedicated group of runners I have ever had the pleasure of running with and it was absolutely making Ohio history." Heckman added, "This season was very memorable, not only for what we accomplished, but also because of the strong friendships we formed."

The 2006 season is one that will be remembered for elevating the program to new heights. With five returning underclassmen that have experience on the National level, the Bears look towards a promising future. Assistant Coach Jason Maus said, "This was an unbelievable year. We achieved so much as a team. Being one point from a conference title and running at the National meet puts the program at a whole new level."

WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

It all starts with a dream

"Standing on the starting line of Nationals with my spikes already covered in mud was something I only could have imagined until this year," says senior Dana Mathew. Four years ago a group of athletes fresh out of high school came together with a dream to one day win the Ohio Athletic Conference title and to compete at Nationals. After many years of hard work, sweat and pain, an unbelievable drive carried these ladies to their dreams. The senior-dominated team came out with a purpose this season that motivated the others to follow. Senior Lauren Crook described the season as "memorable."

The team was nationally ranked all season with the highest ranking being 36th. Seniors Elizabeth D'Amico, Jackie Kessler and Mathew earned All-Great Lakes Regional honors and All-OAC honors. Also receiving All-OAC honors was senior Karen Miller. Mathew was named OAC "Runner of the Week" twice during the year. Mathew, Kessler, and Miller all received ~~Academic All-American status as well. As a team, they earned Academic All-American status.~~ The team made school history by winning back-to-back OAC titles, placing four girls in the top 10 of the conference, and by being the first team to make it to the National meet. The team finished 30th in the nation.

Sophomore Regina Bressan says, "We emphasized believing that we could make it to National and worked everyday with that goal in mind. This year we graduate seven great seniors, so we hope to continue our conference-winning tradition even though we will not have their talent and leadership."

"There is no better way to go out than at Nationals with the people you have been with for four years. It was a dream come true and there is no one I would have rather been with out in the mud," concludes senior Dana Fitzlzo. Hardwork paid off and the ladies were able to capture their dreams.

1. Senior Elizabeth Di Nino sprints towards the finish at the All-Ohio meet. The Bears went on to place second out of all Division III schools.
2. After running through 6000 meters of mud, senior Lauren Crook crosses the finish line. The competition was tough and the six-inch deep mud puddles made it worse.
3. Fighting to stay ahead of the competition, senior Carol Matthews competes at the NCAA meet. Matthews led the team all year for placing first for the team all but two times.
4. Seniors Jackie Reaser and Karen Miller round the corner at the NCAA Regional meet. Reaser and Miller ran many of this season's races pit-and-rock.
5. After winning the DAC 1000-back-to-back years, the ladies take time to pose with their trophy. This title took everyone to win, top to bottom, as it was a total team race.
6. Head Coach Brian Cole gives their instructions just before the start of the race. This pep talk helped keep many individuals calm and focused.
7. Seniors Dana Pitts, Carol Matthews, Jessa Pajunen, Karen Miller, Elizabeth Di Nino, Lauren Crook, and Jackie Reaser stand with Assistant Coach Jason Maue after placing at the Calvin State meet. The seniors all felt that this successful season was a great way to end their four years.

MEN'S SOCCER

Banner year for the Bears

1. Senior Goal Keeper Brice McMeister jumps high into the air to stop the ball from going into the net.

2. Freshman Cody James taking a little on the ground to clear the ball from his teammates.

3. Developing some "flicky" footwork, freshman Danny Olanicac prepares to pass the ball to a teammate.

4. Tyler Johnson charges up field to play some defense.

The OHSU Men's Soccer team enjoyed their best year ever in 2008. With a record of 18-2-1, the Polar Bears won the OAC tournament for the first time in school history and received an automatic bid into the Division III NCAA Tournament. It was also the first time OHSU made it to the national tournament. The outstanding season began with a 14 game winning streak that lasted for nearly six weeks. The team's efforts kept the soccer program's streak of nine straight winning seasons in tact. According to Coach Brent Ridenour, "Our success this season is a direct reflect on our seniors and their 'team first' attitudes. No one cared who received the glory this season. They all just went out and did what the coaching staff asked of them."

The team was led in scoring by freshman Dan Olanicac. His solid first season included 11 goals with six game winners and eight assists to lead the team in those categories. The strong play of the five seniors, Brice McMeister, Josh Danklefsen, Jimmy Penness, Andrew Aurilio and Steve Ritter contributed largely to the team's success.

Unselfishness is perhaps the best word to describe this group of winners. The coach and team members agree that the unity created this season was instrumental to their success. Olanicac said, "I think our success was that a 'team first' attitude, everybody played together. There was nobody out there playing for just himself. It was the most unselfish team I have ever been a part of. Olanicac reiterated his comments by saying, "It was great to see a team of unselfish players achieve as much as we did. We have reached new heights, and it is now time to see what is beyond that for next season."

1. Dan Chamisai winds up to kick the ball deep down field to one of his teammates in hopes of setting up an OHV goal.
2. After a save sophomore Aaron Collins lets the opponents know that they got nothing on him! Both goalies did a great job of keeping the ball out of the net all year.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

A season not to be forgotten...

This season the Ohio-Northern Women's Soccer team finished a winning season with an overall record of 13-3-3 and 7-1-1 in the Ohio Athletic Conference. The ladies started their season off strong with a 5-1 win against Stevens Tech (N.Y.). The Polar Bears' season came to an unfortunate end when they fell Capital 3-0 in the semi-finals and were then eliminated 1-0 on penalty kicks. It was the second time in three years that Northern has made it to the OAC tournament. The elimination however, did not affect the players' feelings about their overall season. Senior Kelli Dodson said, "I think our biggest accomplishment this season was our record and being ranked in the region every week. We played some top-notch teams and we beat most of them. In the past we've had an average of two or three total losses as many wins, but this year we really came out to play."

Head Coach Mark Bateman said, "We gained a lot of respect in the conference and in the region this season." It was unfortunate that the Lady Polar Bears were eliminated in the semi-finals, but they are determined to revive on and learn from this experience.

There were many accomplishments this season including many All-OAC accolades. Senior Diana Smith was named to the OAC first team for her fourth season alongside teammates sophomores Katherine Schardt and freshman Kaitlin Sanders. Freshman Taylor Garber earned second team and sophomore Emily Davies earned honorable mention. Smith was also the first Northern woman to receive the OAC title "Forward of the Year." She led the OAC in goals with 10 and in points with 40. In addition to these records, Smith was the third person ever in OAC history to break through with 53 goals and the fourth person in Northern history to score 132 career points.

1. Taylor Garber attempts to stop a pass by her John Carroll opponent. With only three seasons, the Lady Bears relied heavily upon their freshmen during the year.

2. Jennifer Hagg rushes to get the ball before her opponent. Aggressiveness is key to the game of soccer.

3. Angela Paul drives down the field with the ball in hopes of scoring a goal.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Breaking the press, breaking the records

Takin' it to the hoops is just what the Ohio Northern University Men's Basketball team did this season, achieving a 19-7 overall record. Second year Coach Jeff Coleman helped to lead the team to their 17th consecutive winning season by placing third in the Ohio Athletic Conference with a record of 12-6.

Three ONU men received OAC honors this season. Senior Greg Badenhop received First Team All-OAC and also led the team in scoring with 14.6 ppg, three point field goals with 62, steals with 50 and assists with 49. Badenhop was named 6th all time at ONU with 1,469 career points and 8th all time with 242 career three points and 7th all time for career steals with 368.

Senior Bartley Hostetler was named to Second Team All-OAC and led the men in rebounds with 6.2prg and steals with 54. Hostetler also led with 64 assists and made 85 of 139 field goals for a 61.2 field goal percentage for the season. Junior Hyle Gethie was the third ONU men's basketball player to receive honors where he received All-OAC Honorable Mention. Gethie was able to lead the Polar Bears in scoring with 13.1 ppg and three point goals with 50 throughout the season.

Hostetler was named MVP of the Elizabeth Town, Pa. 3 Day Classic All-Star team and Defensive MVP at the Wooster Mass. Hole Classic All-Tournament Team where Badenhop received MVP.

One of this season's biggest accomplishments, according to Hostetler, was winning the Wooster tournament and beating Wooster who was number one at the time and beating UW-Lacrosse who was also ranked in the nation. Reflecting on his senior year, he said, "I will miss the team the most. They are great guys who are a blast to hang out with."

2. Kurtis Brown refuses to let this Baldwin Wallace defender stop him. Brown skillfully drives around him, eyes on the hoop.

Michael Hunter goes in for a lay-up. This type of shot earns the Bears two points. Jared Bashelman dribbles around an Otterbein opponent. Such skill makes the game look easier than it really is.

Craig Badenhop shoots the ball from the top of the key. He has set many records during his OHSU career.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Breaking in the court floor

Ohio Northern University Women's Basketball started the 2006-2007 season strong by winning their first six games. "Step Up" was a theme the women developed for this season which gave them hope and encouragement throughout the season. Junior Jennifer Markle said, "Each player contributed and stepped up in her own personal way to make our team successful. We broke history, set new records and began a new tradition in ONU Women's Basketball." One thing that the women especially enjoyed this season, according to junior Megan Cevassio, was that, "We finally earned some respect in the OAC. People were finally afraid to play us this year."

This season three women received All-OAC honors. Junior Erin Brand received First Team honors; sophomore Alaska Rinehart received Honorable Mention. The third woman was Coach Michelle Durand who in her 6th season with Ohio Northern was acknowledged as Co-Coach of the Year. Brand led the ONU women in scoring with 12.1 ppg, rebounding with 6.7 rpg, and had 18 blocked shots. She also had a .785 free throw percentage and .465 shooting percentage which also led the women this season. Rinehart led the team with free throws attempted and made with a record of 95 out of 127.

When senior Sam Harrison was asked what her favorite thing about playing basketball at Ohio Northern is, she said, "The team. They are my family away from home." Without the team she doesn't know if she would have made it through all four years here at Northern. "The team finished out the season 4th in the league with an 11-7 record and an overall record of 17-10. They also made it to the Ohio Athletic Conference Semi-Finals, where they lost to Wilmington 73-85. This season was the best season in the past 35 years for the Women Polar Bears.

Emily Cullenstein is playing some intense defense while a Capital player has the ball. Having good defense strategies are just as important as having good offense strategies.

Chris Brand is unstoppable, driving the ball to the hoop. Will she score? The players have a pregame huddle to encourage each other and get motivated for the game.

1. Mallory Pardo drives past a Mount Union opponent. Such determination and skill was crucial to the team.

2. Jenny Kinkle stands at the top of the key looking for an open teammate. Playing as a team led the Lady Bears to success.

WRESTLING

Pinning their opponents to the mat

The 2006-2007 wrestling season has been a productive one. Under the direction of Head Coach Ron Beaschler and Assistant Coach Nathan Shearer, the Polar Bears ended the season with an overall record of 10-12, and 3-3 in the Ohio Athletic Conference.

The Bears had a good start at the Cornet Duels at Olivet, Michigan with a 3-1 record. Next the Bears placed 4th out of 8 teams at the Ashland Simonson Invitational. An impressive 13 OAU wrestlers placed in the top six in their respective weight classes, with sophomores David Penny and junior Ben Ploewman both declared champions. The other 11 placers were freshman Jeff Penny in 2nd, junior Lance Hassell, sophomore A.J. Coleman, sophomore Collin Swick and junior Scott Nevenschwander in 3rd, freshman Josh Bodner, freshman Lucas Jaconet and sophomore Matt Stahl in 4th, and senior Jay Salge, freshman Stu Fisher and freshman Cy Stephens in 5th.

The OAU Invitational was another important event this year. The Bears finished 12th out of 21 teams, and Beaschler was satisfied with the team's performance. Beaschler said that "our guys are improving with each match they wrestle, which is what they have to do to be where we want to be at OHS this season." David Penny placed 6th in the Invitational, while Coleman placed 7th and Jeff Penny along with junior Ben Waldman placed 8th.

Two more important invitational events were the Midwest Classic and the Manchester (Ind.) Invitational. During the Manchester Invitational both Jaconet and freshman Josh Heneghan placed 8th. In the Midwest Classic, David Penny placed 7th and Ploewman placed 8th.

The Bears were extremely successful at the OAC Championships. Not only did the OAU wrestlers place 4th out of 7 teams, but Ben Ploewman, A.J. Coleman and David Penny all claimed OAC Champions in their weight classes. The three wrestlers then had the opportunity to participate in the 2007 NCAA Division II Wrestling Championships in Lutes, Iowa.

The 2006-2007 season has proved to be a successful one. David Penny reflected that "even though we had a young team this season, we've been successful because we have a group of guys who go in and work hard everyday and not just a few days a week." Salge adds, "This season was the best season I have ever experienced with Ohio Wrestling. Although we had our ups and downs wrestling the top teams in the country, it all paid off when we had three conference champions qualify for nationals."

1. The OAU wrestler achieves a sound victory over his opponent, showing complete domination.
2. Wrestlers congratulate each other and discuss the match after a win. While each member analyzes independently, the support of the team is also important.
3. Adam Knoch greets with his opponent, preparing to throw him to the mat for another win.

MEN'S SWIMMING

A breakout season

The Ohio Northern University 2006-2007 Men's Swimming team had a very successful season thanks to numerous breakout swimmers helping contribute to the team's success and the leadership of Head Coach Peggy Ewald. Many underclassmen rose to the challenge and gained recognition, including sophomore Nathaniel Peyton who received the title of Ohio Athletic Conference Men's "Swimmer of the Year" and freshman Axel Brandt who gained the honor of Ohio Athletic Conference Men's "Diver of the Year," along with several other underclassmen who were decorated with awards. In addition to competing well in Ohio, the Men's Swimming and Diving team traveled to Delray Beach, Florida to compete in the Aqua Crest Invitational, where they finished fourth. The Ohio Northern University Men's Swimming and Diving teams completed their season with an overall record of 5-3, and the team went 4-0 in the Ohio Athletic Conference, winning the conference and also grasping the Ohio Athletic Conference Regular Season Title.

The Men's Swimming and Diving team will be graduating three seniors this year - Kirk DeCapite, Erik Lange and Sean Quinn - but the team will still hold strong next year due to the large amount of talent within the other sixteen members. The individual skill was augmented by Coach Ewald's knowledge and encouragement and the help of Assistant Coaches Emily Greenhagen, Justin Hakey, David Huff, Russell Hunt and Tiffany Patterson. The team began their season on a high by winning their first two meets and continued to strive and accomplish their goals of a winning season. Freshman Chris Westrick said, "A tradition that the men's swimming and diving team has is every year before their OAC championship meet, the majority of the team bleaches their hair and cuts them into Mohawks, then right before the meet we shave our heads." Freshman Dan Henry said, "We are like a giant family because we spend so much time together. We had a lot of fun traveling to Florida and competing against Division I schools. I've never had so much fun losing."

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

Aspiring swimmers

The Ohio Northern University 2006-2007 Women's Swimming and Diving team broke out this year with seventeen freshmen competing on the team and boosting the team's awards. Six freshmen won various recognitions this year such as Ohio Athletic Conference Women's "Swimmer of the Year," Ohio Athletic Conference Champions, All-Ohio Athletic Conference, and Ohio Athletic Conference "Player of the Week." The team traveled to Florida for a warm-up session, competing in a large meet with colleges such as USC, University of Alabama and numerous other Division I schools. The team was coached by Head Coach Peggy Ewald and Assistant Coaches, Emily Greenhagen, Justin Hickey, David Hoff, Russell Hunt and Tiffany Patterson.

Breaking out of the normal with a large variety of freshmen on the team, the women's swimming and diving team devoted hours of exercise and practice in preparation for their competitions. The swimmers practiced in the morning for an hour twice a week, in the afternoon for two hours a day, spent time lifting twice each week and performed dry land training, which consisted of pushups and crunches.

Freshman Jessica Heidrich said, "Ohio Northern's Swimming and Diving teams are very close and accepting to the freshmen which is completely different than my high school experience, and it is nice that I am able to have the closeness to my other teammates." Because of the close-knit group success was a shared goal of the team. The team finished their season with an overall record of 6-6, 4-0, making an Ohio Athletic Conference record, Ohio Athletic Conference Champions and also Ohio Athletic Conference Regular Season Champions.

Jessica Ewald and Katherine Moore were named OAC Swimmers of the Week twice while Kimberlee Randall and Lacey Shumate earned the accolades once. Shumate was also named OAC Swimmer of the Year at the conference meet.

The four seniors, Jessica Ewald, Christie Meyer, Melissa Paradise and Lauren Seibert, have had very successful careers there at Ohio Northern and have taught the other swimmers well. Their guidance has pushed the team to new standards. Freshman Krista Goodrich said, "The current group of women athletes did amazingly well at the OAC conference championships. We've had an amazing season with a talented group of student athletes and we're looking to continue the success with the incoming freshmen and the returning swimmers. This was the first year in ONU history that the women have won OAC's and we are striving for the same goal next year."

MEN'S INDOOR TRACK

Not Satisfied yet

The Ohio Northern Men's Indoor Track team is not just looking to beat their competition - they are looking for a chance to dominate. With only a few graduating seniors, this team's goal seems very achievable. Sophomore Eric Porter states, "We are only becoming stronger and stronger. Coach Jason Maas is spending a lot of hours working to develop a team that can compete with the best. His hard work is rubbing off on us and will pay off later. He is making others petrified to race us."

The highly decorated Beers earned many honors this season. As a team they placed third at the OAC Championships and were ranked 21st in the USTFCCA poll. Sophomores Jimmy O'Brien, senior Chad Eagy and junior Ryan Robertson were named OAC "Athletes of the Week" during the season. Earning All-OAC honors included Robertson in the 55 dash and long jump, freshman Joe Amstutz in the 500, O'Brien in the 800 and Eagy in the pole vault. The team of Amstutz, O'Brien, Porter, and senior Mark Bliehan also earned All-OAC honors in the 4x400 and Distance Medley Relay. That team also set a new school record and qualified provisionally for the National meet in the Distance Medley Relay earlier in the season. O'Brien was later named Great Lakes Region "Male Athlete of the Year." At Nationals, Robertson earned All-American honors in the long jump with a 6th place finish and O'Brien became an All-American and National Champion by winning the 800 in school record time of 1:53.48.

After coming off of the season with a highly successful team, the members are not satisfied. "The team's only goal was to place high at the conference meet," states Porter. After placing 3rd, the team is now only more motivated than before. "We are not satisfied, we can do better, so we will just call it motivation," states sophomore Paul Lewis. This indoor season was just another stepping stone for the up and coming men's running program at ONU. They are becoming regarded as a powerhouse team, not only in the conference, but also in the nation.

WOMEN'S INDOOR TRACK

One Team, One passion, No limits

Indoor track is much different than outdoor track. Not only do you have different events, but you have a different atmosphere. Senior Jess Piipainen explains, "It's different from outdoor track due to the excitement from your teammates and the people that come out to support us at the Friday Night Series meets." Fellow teammates, Freshman Stephanie Hiseer adds, "I wasn't sure what to expect coming in, but I thought every meet was exciting, and I turned out to love every minute of indoor."

Team honors included a third place finish at the OAC Championship and a ranking as 14th team in the nation by the USTFCCA. Receiving All-OAC honors included sophomore Abby Schulte in the 55 dash, sophomore Joy Kessler in the 500, senior Dani Mathew in the mile, and senior Sara McGinnis in the long jump and high jump. Freshman Brittany Farber teamed with seniors Lauren Cook, Jackie Kessler and Karen Miller to achieve All-OAC honors in the Distance Medley Relay. McGinnis was named OAC "Field Athlete of the Week" twice during the season. At the last Friday Night meet, Mathew, Jackie Kessler, Miller and Joy Kessler teamed together to shatter the OBU record in the 4x500 relay by nearly 12 seconds. McGinnis went on to compete at Nationals in the high jump where she just missed All-American status by placing 11th due to a lingering illness.

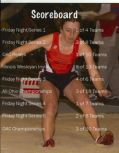

The team is losing ten athletes to graduation, however, the strong depth of the indoor women should carry them far, Piipainen says. "It is true that we are losing some of our leadership, but I've seen the passion that the undergrads have for running, and I believe that with that they will only improve and continue where we have left off." Even though this season did not end as many had hoped it would, the Lady Bears still gave it everything they had. They put it out there on the line to prove that they are one team with one passion that has no limits.

BASEBALL

Breaking out of the ball park

1. A baseball member runs home after a teammate hits the ball.
2. Scott Bruckman pitches to the batter. Bruckman pitched in many games this season.
3. Phil Bruno easily makes an out when he catches the ball at first base.
4. Jeff Henfling throws the ball to the first baseman after testing the ball.
5. The dugout anxiously watches the game. Team support was key to their success this season.

The Ohio Northern Men's Baseball team took it to the field this season, led by Head Coach Justin Bergman, and ended with a 15-23 overall record and an OAC record of 8-12. The men warmed up for their season with a spring break trip to Port Charlotte, Florida where they played against teams from Alma (Mich.), St. John's (Mich.), Johnson and Wales (R.I.), Rose-Hulman (Ind.) and Clark (Mass.), winning 4-out of 7 times. The season began on March 10 after the original home-opener against MI. St. Joseph was postponed due to cold.

Junior Nick Simoff's favorite memory from this season "was sweeping Otoberlin, the 17th ranked team in the country. It really gave us ~~some really good memories to remember~~." Despite a season of ups and downs, the men never gave up on the field. Battling dismal weather and tough teams, several players stood out for themselves individually. During the week of May 9, senior Scott Bruckman was named OAC Player of the Week¹ and freshman Loren Reischman was named OAC Player of the Week². Both men had exceptional weeks with Johnson going 5-0 with a save in two different appearances and Reischman went 5-10 with two home runs and 8 RBIs.

Other players earning recognition were senior Jack Conkey, who made First-Team Academic All-OAC Honors. Conkey started 38 times this season and batted .334. Senior Phil Burns was also named First-Team All-OAC. Burns played first baseman for the Bears and led the OAC with a .434 batting average. He was also 9th in the OAC with 50 hits.

Burns offers this advice to the rest of the team for seasons-to-come: "Enjoy playing every game because college goes extremely fast, every game like it is your last and don't accept mediocrity."

SOFTBALL

Softball standouts

The Ohio Northern University Softball team had a break-out season this year by becoming co-champions of the Ohio Athletic Conference. The team ended up 32-10-1 overall and 15-3 in the conference. The Lady Polar Bears were coached by Head Coach Annette Hunt-Shepherd and Assistant Coaches Jeremy Shepherd, Les Bowman, Kara Kreisher and Stephanie Goettsche.

Contributing to the success of the team this year was the fact that the goals for the year focused on team improvement and unity, such as "having an above .500 season and staying unified through the good and the bad," says Hunt-Shepherd. Freshman Mandi Fought says, "Being co-champs showed who we were this season. It shows how much work and dedication we put into each and every practice and game. We worked hard during off-season and made ourselves into the team that we had become at the end of the season."

This was a very memorable year for the team, including having four players being named All-OAC for softball. Named to first team were senior Erin Kenny and freshman Tisa Mangala. Second team honors were awarded to freshmen Courtney Cash and Fought. These same players were also named to the 2008 Olympic All-American selection. Kenny and sophomore Matti McFarlin earned recognition as OAC All-Tournament team members. Several players also earned the 2008 OAC All-Star team honors, including senior Melanie Ward, Cash, McFarlin and Mangala. Mangala won two additional titles as well: OAC "Rookie of the Year" and NFCA All-American.

After such an inspiring season, positive memories among the teammates abound. According to senior Melanie Ward, "The best memory I would have to be that we as a team broke 15 school records and won the OACs, which gave us an opportunity to hold the tournament here at ONU." All-in-all, the ONU softball team had a very successful year, which, with some work in the off-season, should carry over to next season.

MEN'S GOLF

Team Continues Success From Past Seasons

Following their successful 2005-06 season, the Men's Golf team returned for the 2006-07 season with high goals. Head Coach, Anthony Ghobson, returned for his second year leading the Bears. The guidance of Ghobson and Assistant Coach Scott Richards, combined with the men's teamwork and determination, made this season memorable for all players. With the majority of their team members returning from the previous season, the Bears set the bar high.

The team was led by junior Wes Immler who finished the season with an average of 81.1 over 18.5 rounds. Immler's accomplishments earned him First Team Academic All-Ohio Athletic Conference honors. At the ONU Invitational tournament, Immler finished in a three-way tie for first place. Immler was matched in his achievements by sophomore Andrew Rahing who set a new ONU record for lowest number of hits over 18 holes, formally set by Jeff Steinberg in 1995. Rahing scored a 87 at the ONU Invitational on April 19th, beating the previous record of 90. Rahing was recognized for his feat and named OAC "Player of the Week." Immler says that Rahing "is by far the most improved player we have on the team."

The team started its 2007 spring schedule with a match at Warner Southern in Florida. ONU was defeated 317 to 348, with junior Chase Cummings and freshman Paul Merbitzer scoring 88. This start did not stop the team from succeeding throughout the rest of their season. The Men's Golf team went on to place first at the ONU Invitational tournament located at the Colonial Golfers Club and sixth at the OAC Championships held at the Cumberland Trails Golf Club. Sophomore Ben Kretz was the lowest-scoring teammate from ONU at the Championships, tying for 54th place overall. Kretz reflects, "We push each other on the course and as a direct result, we see the benefits in our golf game."

The Bears did not graduate any of their players this year and expect the 2007-08 season to be even more rewarding than the 2006-07 season. After this past season, the ONU community is eager to continue to watch the team improve and succeed.

Chase Cummings watches as his ball flies towards the hole. Will it be a hole-in-one?

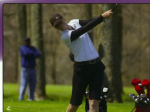

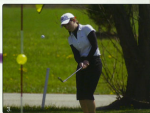

Chris Foster shows his skills on the green by keeping his score low.

1. After sinking her putt on first attempt, Meagan Brennan bends to retrieve her ball. Brennan led the team all year.

2. Megan Russell removes some debris from in front of her ball before taking her shot. The slightest error could put you over par.
3. Meagan Brennan chips her ball onto the green from the bottom of a hill.
4. Jennifer Bremann follows through after her swing. To get the ball to the green on the first shot takes an extreme amount of effort.
5. Penelope Ford is not only strong on her shot but is judging how hard to hit the ball. Making it to the green is one thing, but sinking your putt is another, as it takes much concentration.

WOMEN'S GOLF

Laying the Foundation for the Dynasty to Come

The Lady Polar Bears Golf team is breaking out this year by breaking not only OAC records but OAC tournament records as well. Led by the recently-awarded OAC Coach of the Year, Stacey Hairston, the team finished 15th in their first-ever appearance at the NCAA Tournament in Orlando, Florida.

Coach Hairston told the ladies during their spring break trip that he wanted to make it back to Florida before the season was done. Five girls, senior Kassi Harlen, junior Megan Brennan and freshmen Haylea Thresher, Pensha Ford and Megan Russell were able to do just that by beating John Carroll by fifteen strokes and championship host Otterbein by sixteen strokes.

It took a lot of time and determination for the team to earn their OAC title. Hairston explains, "In the beginning, we were falling a little short of our expectations. We are a young team, but we refused to lower our standards. We kept working and kept getting better each week until we started playing with the confidence to win."

The five upperclassmen and five freshmen broke both team and individual records all year. In the championship alone, the ladies set school records for 18-hole team and individual scores of 680 to 70+ve strokes. Brennan was again a key player, bringing in the top-scor-

by shooting two-over par, a new OAC record, and taking home team All-OAC honors. Russell took 5th and earned All-Tournament Team honors and Second Team All-OAC honors. Thresher started in with her career low of 66 at Otterbein. Looking back on her first year Thresher said, "We've done a lot of things people thought we couldn't do, but we knew we could. And now we have laid a solid foundation for the dynasty to come."

MEN'S TENNIS

Taking the titles

The ONU Men's Tennis team continued their legacy of success in the 2006-07 season. The games began in September, starting with the ITA/Central Regional Championships tournament at Washington University (Mo.), where junior Misak Scott and sophomore Kyle Webb led the Polar Bears. Over spring break, the Bears traveled south to Orlando, Florida for more pre-season competition. Competition included Webster International (Fla.), Hanover (Ind.), Lake Superior State (Mich.) and Aquinas (Mich.). The regular season for the team began with their home-opener on March 23. On March 27, the team won their 24th consecutive Ohio Athletic Conference opener against Capital, with Scott scoring a perfect day. Their successful season was crowned by three 3-0 victories against Bluffton, Otterbein and Marietta.

The team's high scores carried them to the OAC Tournament, where they defeated Otterbein at the quarter-finals, John Carroll at the semi-finals and Baldwin Wallace at the finals. The Bears won their sixth OAC Tournament title and received their first-ever bid to the NCAA Division III Championships. At the NCAA Division III Championships, the team lost to Calvin (Mich.) after many close matches.

The Bears' success earned them much recognition as a team and as individuals. Sophomores Ryan Paul and Webb were both named 1st Team Academic All-OAC. Juniors Bert Schenck and Scott were named 1st Team All-OAC, and sophomore Chris Dolner was named 2nd Team All-OAC. Scott also received recognition as OAC "Player of the Week." Head Coach Glenn Scheutzone earned the OAC "Coach of the Year" award.

The eight players, led by Head Coach Scheutzone and Assistant Coaches Scott Willis and Chris Alexander, topped their previous season with high scores and titles. Paul reflects on the season, saying that "getting to play the OAC tournament at the ATP was pretty cool." After such a successful season, the team eagerly anticipates next year and another chance at the NCAA Division III Championships.

The Women's Tennis team had an extremely successful 2008-09 season. The girls had an overall record of 22-7 and an 8-3 in the Ohio Athletic Conference under the direction of Head Coach Scott Wills and Assistant Coach Chris Alexander. The Polar Bears kicked off the season with a victory against Manchester and Bluffton. Senior Melanie Glaski gained recognition as the 3rd member to be inducted in the OIU 100-Win Club.

Junior Courtney Anderson also entered the 100-Win Club after winning two singles and two doubles matches against Albion and Marietta. FG Bridget Larsen later became another member of the 100-win Club during a match against Wooster. The team was undefeated in the OAC for an impressive 7 matches until they faced Baldwin-Wallace. By then the team was 19-0 overall and 7-1 in the OAC. The ladies finished out the year with a regular season overall 20-6 and an OAC 8-1 league mark.

The Polar Bears came in 2nd at the 2009 Ohio Athletic Conference Tournament held in Linder Tennis Center. The ladies won their first round with a 5-0 victory against Heidelberg. The Bears had another complete 5-0 victory against Otterbein in the semi-finals. "The highlight of the season was when we got to play Baldwin-Wallace. It was exciting," said freshman Katie Gibbs. The girls won 2nd place after a close 3-5 loss against Baldwin-Wallace. "It was a little disappointing losing to Baldwin-Wallace, but all in all we had a great team and a great season," said senior Kim Hackbert.

The Women's Tennis team not only won many matches, but also won many awards. Larsen along with juniors Kaitlyn MacDonald and Ashley Yentz earned the Academic All-Ohio Athletic Conference title. The All-Ohio Athletic Conference title was earned by Larsen, MacDonald and Yentz along with freshman Rachael Randall. Anderson earned the Ohio Athletic Conference "Player of the Week" award.

1. Bridget Larsen and Kim Hackbert combined for twice competition at W-1 doubles.
2. Melanie Glaski and Kaitlyn MacDonald shake hands with their opponents after defeating Pomper at W-2 doubles.

MEN'S OUTDOOR TRACK

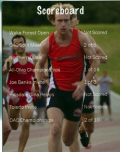

Breaking in their running shoes

The Men's Outdoor Track team has had a phenomenal season with an overall record of 22-1. "This track season has been full of record breaking and goal achievement," said freshman Lukas Kramer. "The guys give all they have each and every time." The team was under the direction of Head Coach Brian Cole along with Assistant Coaches Jason Maus and Jake Gleason.

The conference meet can be summed up by freshman Garrett Petty. "A lot of people really stepped up at the conference and peaked when they needed to peak." The team had several event champions that included junior Ryan Robertson (200), and sophomores Jimmy O'Brien (800, 1500) and Thomas Adam (50,000). Two relays also won their races. The 4x800 consisting of O'Brien, freshman Joe Amstutz, sophomore Eric Porter, and senior Mark Berkan set a new OAC and school record with 7:37.59, and the 4x300 consisting of seniors Graupmann and Ryan Garry, Robertson and sophomores Justin Linzy claimed first. Others receiving All-OAC honors included senior Jon Graupmann, sophomore Paul Lewis and Eric Thatcher, and freshman Paul Motzner.

Other awards and achievements were Kevin Heckman being named first team Academic All-OAC, while Adam and Lewis earned Honorable Mention Academic All-OAC. O'Brien was named team MVP and USATF/OCAA Great Lakes Male Track Athlete of the Year. O'Brien also set school records in the 800, 1500 and was a part of the record setting 4x800 relay consisting of Amstutz, Graupmann, and Berkan. He also qualified to nationals in the 400, 800, and 1500. Others qualifying for nationals included senior Chad Eagy in the pole vault, the 4x100 relay team and Robertson in the 100, 200, and long jump. O'Brien, Robertson and Motzner have all won OAC "Athlete of the Week" during the 2006-07 season. O'Brien won his second NCAA title in the 800 at the National meet.

Overall the season has been a successful one for the men. Thatcher says the team already has goals for next year. "We look to improve our point total in the OAC meet and work toward setting closer to a conference championship."

1. Thomas Adam and Paul Lewis tuck in behind the leader in the 50,000 meter race. Adam went on to win the event, while Lewis placed second.

2. Garrett Petty rounds the corner of his approach in the high jump competition. Building up speed is key to clearing the bar.

3. Jimmy O'Brien looks to pass on the outside in the 800 meter run at the Hillsdale State Relays. O'Brien finish in 1:49.84 to rank first in the country and automatically qualified in the event.

4. Mark Berkan runs away from traffic in the 4x800 meter relay event. The team consisting of Joe Amstutz, Berkan, Eric Porter and O'Brien won the event and set a new OAC and school record in the event by running 7:36.59.

Racing to the finish

1. Courtney Dupanloup pushes with all her might in the shot put competition. While being only a freshman, Dupanloup made great strides and will be a force the OAC later in her career.
2. Janelle Jensen is about to lower her pole into the box to spring herself over the bar. Jensen earned AP/OAC honors in the event.
3. Amy Swigert sprints to the finish line ahead of the competition.
4. Carol Withrow demonstrates good form going over the barrier in the steeplechase competition. Withrow provisionally qualified in the event at the OAC Championships meet.
5. Elizabeth Di Niro runs away from the competition in the 32,000 meter race. Even though this race is 20 laps around the track, it is still exciting to watch.

The 2008-09 season for the Women's Outdoor Track team has been a successful one. The girls had an overall record of 17-6. The team lost 10 members to graduation. Freshman Rachel Smith said this year's seniors were great. "They are really strong leaders and we're really close to them and it's bittersweet."

One of the highlights of the season was marked by the Beams placing 3rd at the Outdoor GAC Track & Field Championship. At the meet, senior Raxon Miller placed second and broke the GAC record in the 1,500-meter run by three seconds. Miller teamed up with senior Jacki Kessler, sophomore Joy Kessler, and Smith to place third in 4x800 meter relay which was also a school record and GAC honors. In addition, David Walther broke his former OHSU record in the 3,000-meter steeplechase by placing second, which also was an NCAA provisional qualifying time. Walther also earned All-GAC honors in the 5,000-meter run with a second place finish. All-GAC Honors were also earned by Elizabeth Di Niro, D.J. Jacki Kessler, junior Amy Senger, sophomore Regina Brenson, Abby Schulte, David Nee and Joy Kessler, and freshmen Janella Janson, Brittany Farber, Courtney Furumori and Smith.

The Lady Bears also received many other awards and recognitions throughout the year. Di Nino provisionally qualified for the NCAA meet in the 50,000 meter run. Jacki Kessler, Joy Kessler, Miller, Matthew, and Di Nino earned first team Academic All-OAC, while seniors Dana Pitts and Sara McGinnis earned Academic All-OAC honorable mention. Joy Kessler and freshman Karen Thatcher earned "Minute of the Week" during the season as well.

"We definitely achieved our goals this outdoor season," reflected Schultz. "We had some runners out for injuries and they were all major participants of our team. Even after these obstacles, we placed in the top 3 at nationals, and had a runner in All Ohio Athletic Conference (honors)." www.ohioathletics.com

DANCING AND CHEERING

Northern Stars Dance Team and Ohio Northern Cheerleaders

Moving halftime audiences with their high-energy routines, the Northern Stars Dance Team held nothing back as they performed on a basketball court. Under the leadership of co-captains senior Elizabeth Fagle and PJ Terren Kindsvatter, the Stars worked as a team to choreograph, practice and perform dances at every ONU men's home basketball game during the season. The team also stepped off the basketball court and onto the football field to perform at an ONU football game for the second year in a row. Another annual tradition the Northern Stars upheld was running a Student Dance Clinic open to young girls in the community. Sophomore dancer Melissa Widman commented, "The kids enjoyed the opportunity to dance at a real ONU basketball game halftime in front of their parents and a crowd of people. They loved showing their stuff!" The Stars also took on a new challenge as they prepared to attend a college-only dance competition in Bowling Green. Kindsvatter explained how much work went into preparation: "We hired an outside choreographer and [held] extra practices to improve technical elements and motion placement." Despite the fact that the majority of the dancers were new to the team in what Fagle referred to as "a retooling year for the squad," the Stars worked hard and shone brighter than ever on and off the court.

The Ohio Northern Cheerleaders took on their own challenges as they sought new and exciting ways to get sports fans on their feet and cheering for the Polar Bears. The squad also welcomed the addition of new coach Heather Hutchings to ONU cheerleading. Senior cheerleader Brooks Fiesinger said of Coach Hutchings, "She works very hard to make us succeed, and is the driving force behind our cheerleaders that are seeing great success this year!" Football cheer captain sophomore Alex Sullivan took over senior cheer captain Jordan Kratten's duties and played a major role in the development of the squad. Sullivan commented, "Our women cheerleaders are hitting harder stunts and tumbling skills than they could before [and] the males have learned to stunt from scratch and are now trying advanced material." The ONU cheerleaders also took the time during the season to make a surprise visit to a Hardin Northern Midjet. Cheerleader practice where they performed and taught the girls new stunts. Breaking with tradition, separate tryouts were held for the basketball cheerleading squad following the football season. New routines had to be learned and mastered quickly; however, the challenge was met with strength and dedication. Coach Hutchings described the team's approach to the season further by explaining, "We're trying to involve the crowd more during games by moving our stunts to the center of the gym floor during timeouts and adding more tumbling to our routine."

INTRATURALS

Breaking out the sneakers

Intramural sports give many students on campus a chance to participate in a competitive atmosphere without the skill and time commitment involved with participating in intercollegiate athletics. A wide variety of sports are offered in an attempt to benefit the most students. These sports include flag football, basketball, volleyball, softball, soccer and ultimate Frisbee. Each intramural sport includes multiple leagues to accommodate differing ability levels. This is done to increase involvement and allow more people to have an opportunity for success. Leagues are for an entire quarter, and there are championship tournaments during the tenth week. The teams compete for the championship shirts that provide bragging rights.

Flag football is offered during fall and spring quarters. This seven-on-seven game is fast paced and many points are scored, making it an extremely popular sport for many men on campus. Sophomore Mathematics major Jen Lookie says, "Flag football is fun because it allows me to play my favorite sport in an organized setting." Softball is also played during the fall and spring quarters. Freshman Lauren Berkhard, a Mechanical Engineering major, says, "Playing intramural softball for the first time in college has allowed me to meet new people. I joined a team for Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and had a great time playing the sport I love with people who became good friends through my involvement." Ultimate Frisbee is also a two-season intramural sport.

Winter brings in the single largest intramural sport on campus: basketball. Basketball broke out fifty-nine teams in four leagues. These leagues consisted of three different levels of competition for the men and a women's league as well. Freshman Biochemistry major Judson Bauman says, "It is a good way to get my mind off of school and stay in shape while doing something I love."

Volleyball is the biggest sport during the spring quarter. The leagues are co-ed, with three men and three women on each team. Volleyball is a favorite because the men and women get to work together to attempt to win the coveted championship t-shirts. Soccer is another sport during the spring quarter. Kim Vogtbecker, a freshman biology major, says, "I enjoy playing volleyball competitively because it is a good stress reliever. I also get to spend time with many of my friends due to the fact that it is co-ed."

Intramurals are an important part of campus life. They provide students with the means to stay in shape, be involved and meet new friends.

CLUB SPORTS

Breaking into the club sports' scene

Many college students enjoy competitive sports but for one reason or another, choose not to compete on a college team. Due to drive and desire to compete, club sports have become increasingly popular on college campuses and are open to students of any skill.

There are approximately 18 women on campus who play on the club Women's Soccer team each year, which is active fall quarter. One of the girls who participate played in high school while others currently play for the varsity team on campus. This season the girls were led by President Katie Mermine, a senior Psychology major, and Coaches P4 James Moran and P3 Matt Swartz. Moran says, "The girls put in so much effort, many times we fought off the cold and rain just to practice for the hour and a half we have twice a week."

The Men's and Women's Volleyball teams are a club sport that competes in the fall and spring. This fall season their record was 10-4, qualifying them for Club Regionals for the first time in their history. P4 Mike Robert says, "I love the camaraderie among the girls, and consistently winning against bigger and better schools only because we want to win a team that is winning a lot."

When the cold weather breaks out, the Men's Volleyball team breaks out onto the court. The team consists of 15 players under the direction of Head Coach Brian Hoffman and Assistant Coach Michael Lawrence. Tournaments are played around the area, including Oregon, Kentucky and Indiana. Another winter club sport is Men's and Women's Water Polo, which requires seven players per team to win in the pool using skills from swimming, football and hockey all within one game.

When spring rolls around, the Men and Women's Rugby teams break out the equipment and prepare for the second half of their season. Each team generally plays eight games during the fall while additional games and tournaments occur in the spring. P3 Christy Leary states that her "favorite thing about rugby is not only playing the game, but also the traditions that go along with it - especially the song." To many of the players, it is not just about playing the game. "The best thing about playing rugby would have to be the friends I've made. On and off the field, they are the greatest group of guys," say senior Management major Mike Weaver.

Overall, whether students want to be competitive or just have fun, club sports offer all students the opportunity to break out their skills on their own terms.

1. Editor-in-Chief Karen Miller rewards the yearbook staff with smoothies for making a deadline. Snacks proved to be an effective motivational tool for the staff.

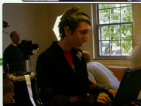

2. Eric Thatcher is excited to help with his favorite yearbook activity: distribution. He also used distribution as a workout for his biceps.

3. Even an Halloween in his arms outfit, Igor Silverman is ready to work. He assists the layout photographer by typing information into the computer.

4. Sarah Mowley takes a break from editing spreads and writing captions. Every page of the yearbook is edited by multiple people before being sent to the printer.

5. Yearbook staff members Arielle Ford, Jen Patton and Jen Buzelle prepare to fight for the next assignment given to the editors. Without the help of the staff members, the Northern Yearbook for the 2006-2007 would never have been finished.

6. Kelly Steinkamp talks over an idea with the advisor Melanie Case Woods. Steinkamp especially enjoys writing sports copies and her dedication was greatly appreciated.

YEARBOOK

A year a little less ordinary

The 2006-2007 Northern Yearbook staff ~~strived to capture how students at OVC are "breaking out" of the ordinary~~ teachers and students. We have looked at how OVC Northern University and its students have grown from their beginnings and where they are in today's world. The staff examining this subject was comprised of Editor-in-Chief Karen Miller, Design Editor Brooks Fleesinger, Photography Editor Igor Mierzwinski, Copy Editor Sarah Mosley and Business Editor Eric Thatcher. Major tasks for the staff besides capturing history included distribution of last year's yearbooks, organizing individual mug shots for students and faculty, a photo contest and many other activities. We have searched every inch of this campus to bring you the new Northern, fresh from its shell.

Miller, a senior Accounting major, and Mosley, a senior Literature and Music Composition double major, bring back experience and leadership as the only two returning editors. Producing a book of this size requires much hard work and dedication. As Copy Editor, Mosley hopes that "all names and words are spelled correctly and that all grammar will be perfect, though it is easy to miss errors with such a large publication." As Editor-in-Chief, Miller hopes "to make a book of which everyone at OVC will be proud."

Thatcher, a sophomore Sport Management major, and Mierzwinski, a sophomore Electrical Engineering major, brought fresh perspectives to the book as first-time editors. Thatcher says of his experience, "I have had a good time as the Business Editor this year, especially with distributing last year's yearbooks." Mierzwinski shares Thatcher's positive experience working on the yearbook; Mierzwinski says, "It's been challenging getting pictures of all of the events on campus, but with the help of the staff, most events were covered. I have had a great time working on the yearbook and will be a Photography Editor."

Fleesinger, a senior Technology major, ~~thinks it is very exciting~~ says of the yearbook staff plans as an opportunity to be of service to the student body and have a long term impact on the university: all at the same time ~~that we are doing things here and that we are excited in my future.~~ "On behalf of the 2006-2007 Yearbook staff, we hope that you enjoy the book and continue to "break out."

NO LONGER SHELTERED

Breaking out in more ways than one

There are many different ways in which people can "break out," including breaking out of a shell, breaking out with acne and breaking out of jail. Each of us when we came to Northern probably broke out in our own unique manner. Some of us have even broken out wedding rings or broken out of the country. Together, however, we all have broken out from the ordinary. We have seen this campus evolve over the years and have been here in times of good and in times of bad. Those who were here will never forget the ice storm of '05, the snow storm of '07, the victory over Mount Union or the day we first came to campus. Through these experiences and many others, we have matured from teenagers into adults. We have broken out of our shells and are ready to face the world.

Each page of the 67th edition of the Ohio Northern University Yearbook holds a story of its own. This could not have been done without the help of its editors: Sarah Masoley, Eric Thatcher, Igor Mierzwinski and Brooks Fiesinger. Together with the help of an amazing staff we have assembled this book for you.

Other debts of gratitude go to our advisor Melanie Caw Woods for her unfailing support and guidance. Thanks to Steve Mankey at Central Receiving for his assistance during distribution. Thanks to Mindi Wells for providing multiple pictures and information regarding the College of Law. Also, to Jim McAdams, our mugshot photographer, for working with us in a patient and professional manner. Lastly, thanks to Jose Noguera for all of his help and patience over the year.

As my final year as Editor-in-Chief of the Northern Yearbook comes to a close, I want to leave behind a book packed full of memories that everyone will cherish and enjoy. No matter where you are in life, I hope you always remember the events and the people that helped you "break out."

Men's Chorus breaking out in song

Breaking out in tears after a hard fought battle

Men's Club Volleyball breaking away from the competition at the National meet and becoming number one.

Rachaela Plavick breaks out into a sweat while ski-toboggling

Proudly breaking out Green Letters

Breaking away from the ordinary

Breaking out the hats and gloves to break out of a snow drift

Breaking out and being proud of your beliefs
